STATE RULE OF UTILITIES HAS HOOVER FAVOR

Believes Federal Government Should Not Regulate "Local" Affairs

DOES NOT FEAR RESULT

Exploitation of Generation Ago Barred by Public Regulation, He Thinks

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright 1929 By Post Pub. Co.)
(In this, the fourth of a series of twelve dispatches, David Lawrence gives an outline of the public utility policy of the Hoover administration. In succeeding dispatches he will discuss other topics, sketching the basis of action in the new administration.)

Washington — On no subject is Herbert Hoover more explicit than in the difference between federal and state regulation of public utilities.

Holding tenaciously to the belief that the federal government already has enough to do without tackling problems that he construes as largely "local," Mr. Hoover stands firm in the conviction that state regulation of public utilities can be counted upon to protect the people against abuses and at the same time permit the inevitable enlargement of the electrical industry.

Being an engineer himself, Mr. Hoover has great respect for the plans of expansion which the power companies of America have formulated.

But he sees them as units in an economic system rather than as "dangerous trusts" or "giant monopolies." He believes that "interconnection" simply means the sale of surplus power from one district to another and that it "has the same economic and public advantages as does the interchange of cars."

DEPENDS ON STATES

Holding that state regulation has been effective, Mr. Hoover brushes aside the suggestions that the federal authority can do any better job. He insists that regulation of public utilities is vital but that the state commissions are fully capable of refusing to admit watered capital in making rates and of "controlling the securities of the operating companies, allowing their issue only against actual value."

"A considerable amount of speculation is going on," he remarks, "especially in the stocks of holding companies, and it may well be condemned, but what I wish to get clear is that in intelligent state regulation neither watered capital or speculation can affect the rates paid by the consumers."

Mr. Hoover does not think that the power situation is parallel with that of the railroads and he feels that there has been much exaggeration on the subject of interstate power. He believes that state commissions can well handle the questions.

MICHIGAN BOND ISSUE IS LOST IN 1ST TEST

Lansing, Mich. — (AP) — Pressed for time on its emergency institutional program, the administration offered the legislature its support of the $25,000,000 bond issue scheme of Senator Arthur E. Wood and then saw the measure go down to defeat by the narrow margin of one vote on its maiden test in the senate Thursday.

British Envoy Praises Washington

SIR ESME ALSO LAUDS TREATY TO BANISH WAR

First President Called Link Between National-Capital Observes Birthday

Washington — (AP) — Praising the Kellogg treaty as an instrument that "must weigh heavily in the balance for the cause of peace," Sir Esme Howard, British ambassador, declared Friday that George Washington must eventually prove to be the greatest link in the chain of friendship and common understanding between the United States and Great Britain.

He was speaking here in commemoration of the 17th birthday anniversary of Washington to the Daughters of the American Revolution of the District of Columbia, the Sons of the American Revolution and the society of the Children of the American Revolution.

The ambassador deplored any spirit of enmity between the two nations and criticized those on both sides of the Atlantic, whom he said, "enjoy stirring up trouble between us, whose lips distill gall and wormwood and whose pens are dipped in vitriol." Turning to the Kellogg treaty, he denied that the nearly 60 nations that have signed it have done so without the intention of keeping their pledge, and asserted that the treaty had made an incalculable difference in world affairs by making it immoral to go to war.

Then, projecting himself into an imaginary visit to Washington at Mount Vernon, the ambassador pictured himself as observing, under prompting: "Well, general, if you wish that I will say that, that I have noted that in political discussions regarding either domestic or foreign questions there is a tendency in this country, perhaps more than elsewhere, to indulge in somewhat unmeasured language."

CAL TO GIVE ADDRESS

Washington — (AP) — The president, congress and the capital city had arranged Friday to observe the 17th anniversary of George Washington's birth.

Ordinarily the cabinet meets on Friday but this was dispensed with, as was the usual Friday press conference with the chief executive. Mr. Coolidge had on his engagement list Friday night an address at George Washington university where he and Mrs. Coolidge were to receive the degree of doctor of laws.

A section in the university auditorium had been reserved for members of the cabinet, many of the members of congress, ambassadors and ministers from foreign countries and others prominent in official life.

A speech by Representative James M. Beck, author of the constitutionality of the feature of the exercises arranged in the house. For many years it has been the custom for Washington's farewell address to be read but this year Representative Beck was asked to deliver an oration.

BECK IS SPEAKER

Beck said that Washington's associates regarded him as man of unusual gifts.

"Jefferson spoke of Washington's intellect as great and powerful," Beck declared. "And Patrick Henry said that of all the members of the first continental congress, Washington was foremost for solid information and sound judgment."

The Pennsylvania representative described Washington as having little faith that the constitution would by itself be a panacea. Beck declared that the safety of the Union depended upon the preservation of the rights of the states.

Some regions in Wyoming, where automobiles could not be operated, reverted to the pony express to move the mail.

The snowfall was reported as heavy in Montana and in most sections in Colorado.

Cruiser Bill Foes Lose In Senate Tilt

Washington — (AP) — Opponents of the cruiser construction program have been beaten in their efforts to keep the naval appropriation bill from being taken up by the senate.

After voting Thursday to take up the bill, the senate also reached an agreement to restrict debate on the measure after 3 o'clock Friday afternoon. This was taken to mean that the naval bill would pass and that money provided in it to begin work on five cruisers during this fiscal year would be immediately available.

It was feared that opposition to the bill might result in a filibuster but two other threatened filibusters still remain to be dealt with. Senator Walsh of Montana, has expressed strong opposition to a provision in the interior department bill which would give the secretary of the interior the right to condemn private land and land in national parks.

Senator Glass of Virginia, has also given notice of his disapproval of the elimination from the second deficiency bill of the $24,000,000 for prohibition enforcement provided in the new deficit first deficiency bill and some interpreted his language as meaning that he might use filibustering tactics.

Before the agreement to limit debate on the naval appropriation bill was reached, Senator Hale of Maine, a sponsor of the cruiser construction program, made a concession to the opposition when he said that he would amend the bill to provide only $200,000 for work on the cruisers during this fiscal year.

COLD AGAIN COMES IN WAKE OF FLOODS

Bitter Weather Adds to Miseries of Southeastern European People

London — (AP) — Miseries of floods which followed severe cold in southeastern Europe as a consequence of a rapid rise in temperature have now been intensified by return to Arctic conditions.

In Thrace, where at least a million acres are submerged, the intense cold has recurred. Such, also, is the case in Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia and Hungary. Belgrade, center of the stricken area, reported a temperature of 17 below zero, Fahrenheit.

Heavy snowfalls were reported over wide areas, reaching far into Greece. Lack of food and coal, owing to disruption of railroad service caused great distress.

Vienna — (AP) — The Austrian parliament learned Friday that the country, in a pathetic plight because of the unprecedented winter, has no relief funds available in the national treasury.

Dr. Karl Seltz, mayor of Vienna, said that the population of the city was living in the darkest misery with one man of every four unemployed, and families of six or more persons forced to live in one room on a government dole of only 33 weekly.

"The municipal government is feeding 120,000 widows and orphans," he said. "All our funds have been exhausted."

DROP CHARGES AGAINST 2 FOND DU LAC YOUTHS

Fond du Lac — (AP) — Two men against whom charges had been filed because of stories told by young girls were dismissed in municipal court Thursday when the girls stated that they were mistaken in their stories. The men are Oscar Pfeiffer, 21, and William Cantler, 30.

Louis Stiller, 19, and Ernest Marj, 21, were ordered held for trial on similar charges, while the cases of two others were continued to Feb. 25.

New Snow-fall Helps Bar Relief In Mountain Area

Denver — (AP) — Efforts to maintain transportation, deliver relief supplies and keep the mail moving, were general Friday over the Rocky Mountain region following another snowstorm.

In Wyoming, where highways already had been made hazardous by snowdrifts before Thursday's four inch fall, an airplane was used to carry food and bedding to a truck caravan marooned in Red desert. The stalled party consists of 25 men and their wives and children.

REBELS OPEN WAR TO SEIZE CHEFOO CITY

Wounded Begin to Arrive but Result Is Doubtful in Latest Outbreak

BULLETIN

Chefoo, China — (AP) — Fighting between former northern soldiers under command of Marshal Chang Tsung-Chang, and loyal nationalist troops in Shantung reached a climax Friday in a clash between 7,000 nationalists and a force of rebels estimated to number 26,000. The battle took place about ten miles west of Chefoo and is stated to have resulted in a nationalist victory.

The rebels lost 200 dead and the nationalists 100. Three hundred prisoners were captured as well as thousands of rifles and 15 machine guns.

Shanghai — (AP) — The initial battle of the military campaign by which rebellious elements hope to wrest the prize province of Shantung from Nationalist China began Friday morning.

Fifteen miles west of Chefoo, important northeastern Shantung city, loyal nationalist troops fought with forces recruited from the revolting garrison at Lungkow and other points.

Gunfire could be heard plainly in Chefoo, and before noon wounded began arriving in the city. The result of the battle was in doubt.

Meanwhile aggressive measures were being taken to strengthen defenses of the city, with additional arms and troops arriving.

The battle brings to a head a movement begun two weeks ago when 3,000 soldiers of northern origin at the garrison at Lungkow revolted. The revolt apparently spread and their forces were augmented.

BETWEEN 3 NOTABLES

Injection of two of the most notable figures in China complicated the situation and gave it a much more serious aspect than was at first apparent. One of these was General Feng Yuhsiang, known as "the Christian general," who is reported massing 30,000 troops on the western Shantung frontier.

The other figure was Chang Tsung-Chang, former war lord of Shantung, who, though defeated, has never been captured by the nationalists. He had escaped to Liaoting, Japanese territory, but it said to have left Dairn, Liaoting, Wednesday, and landed later on the Shantung coast.

Information received here suggested that the situation in Shantung was becoming increasingly serious. Adherent of Chang Tsung-Chang controlled several important cities including Kichow, across the bay from Tsingtao, and all the area northward to the border of Wei-haiwei (British territory) except Chefoo. There were signs, too, of his influence extending far to the west.

GUNS' MISFIRE TWICE SAVES MILWAUKEE COP

Milwaukee — (AP) — Defective guns play a big part in the life of Patrolman Walter Pries. Twice within the past two weeks pistols have pointed at him and on both occasions a misfire of the weapons probably saved his life.

Pries saw a youth push an automobile on the near west side about 1:15 Friday morning and then cross the street and attempt to start another car.

The youth tried to hide behind the car when the patrolman approached. When Pries ran around the car and cut off his escape the youth drew a pistol and pulled the trigger at close range. The trigger clicked but the cartridge did not explode.

Pries seized the youth and was treading the gun from him. At police headquarters he gave his name as Carl Larr, 18. Two weeks ago Pries had a similar experience when he arrested Sam Neufuss.

REFUSE TO ACCEPT PLAN FOR PAYING GERMAN DEBT

Paris — (AP) — The second Dawes committee on German war reparations failed Friday to accept a plan of procedure which was evolved by a subcommittee of five. So many suggestions for changes were made that the subcommittee was instructed to resume its labor and report again to the full committee next Monday.

PERU'S PRESIDENT SAYS TACNA-ARICA ROW ISN'T SETTLED

Lima, Peru — (AP) — President Leguia of Peru, in an interview with the Associated Press, expressed surprise at dispatches from Santiago, Chile, regarding final settlement of the Tacna-Arica boundary dispute between Peru and Chile and denied that this long-pending problem already was solved.

The president said that he was unable to say if a plan sponsored by Alexander P. Moore, American ambassador to Peru, was acceptable or practical for Peru. "Respecting the time when the problem is solved if the plan is acceptable, I will say it will be necessary to wait some weeks," the president said.

"Before announcing any decision on the part of the Peruvian government it is necessary to consult congress and the foreign affairs committee as well as all some other formalities."

Finally the president reiterated the wish to make it known that the Peruvian government denies all reports stating that Peru's chief international problem already has been definitely solved.

FOUR KILLED IN BLAST AT GEORGIA SAWMILL

Glennville, Ga. — (AP) — Four men were killed and four injured in an explosion at the sawmill of W. A. Canuet here Friday.

The cause of the explosion, which occurred in the mill's boiler and all but demolished the establishment, was not determined.

The dead Robert DeWitt, Johnny Hendricks and Kenneth Brown, all white, and Lee Pope, Negro fireman.

It was regarded as probable that the injuries of some of those hurt would prove fatal.

A call was sent to Savannah for nurses to care for the injured and arrangements were made to dispatch three Red Cross nurses here.

FIND NO SIGNS THAT AIMEE BRIBED KEYES

Los Angeles — (AP) — The county grand jury investigating charges of official corruption in Los Angeles, reported Thursday night that no evidence had been uncovered to indicate that Aimee Semple McPherson, Evangelist, had paid money to induce former District Attorney Asa Keyes to drop a conspiracy case against her.

The grand jury's report on the McPherson case suggested, however, that "other bodies may develop further evidence which may warrant action by future grand juries."

BALDWIN BACKS DOWN ON CABINET POSITION

London — (AP) — The government of Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin Friday morning reversed a stand taken earlier this week and announced that southern Irish loyalists would be paid in full for damages sustained in disturbances there. The action followed a revolt within the Conservative party which on Tuesday threatened a vote of no confidence in the cabinet.

LEOPOLD IS CAUGHT COOKING FOOD IN CELL

Joliet, Ill. — (AP) — Nathan Leopold, one of the "thrill players" of Bohemian Frank, was caught cooking food in his cell in the state penitentiary Friday. He was moved to "solitary" after prison authorities found he had constructed a stove in his cell and was cooking midnight meals. For fuel he used alcohol siphoned from the prison ration shops.

Lost Girl Returned To Parents On West Coast

San Francisco — (AP) — Doris Van der Grint, who disappeared from a playground here a week ago, was returned safely to her parents Friday.

For the last week the child had been living at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sharp, Sharp and his wife said Friday they believed Doris was the daughter of Betty, and told a story of being reunited by a stranger. They said they had not seen Doris for many months. Mrs. Sharp said she was the discoverer of a child who had collapsed when she found the child she identified her as Doris.

EAST, SOUTH ARE SWEEPED BY HEAVY STORM

Dozen Dead and Several Hurt as Result of Accidents in Snow and Cold

New York — (AP) — After a belated visit of winter, the eastern portion of the country Friday was floundering out of the worst snow storm of the season.

The storm, sweeping in on a north-east wind, spread a thick covering of snow from Maine to the Carolinas and westward to the Mississippi valley. Severely low temperatures were recorded in many sections.

The deaths of 12 persons, injury to several others and numerous minor accidents were attributed to the snow and cold. Shipping was hampered and railroad schedules disrupted.

The liner Leviathan and other vessels were delayed, being held outside the harbor until the curtain of snow had lifted. Upstate New York was buried under the heaviest fall of the year.

Maine, from the coast inland, suffered the worst snow storm of the year, with snow reaching a depth of 14 inches in places. Temperatures fell as low as 12 degrees below zero. One fishing fleet which headed out of Portland into the storm returned with one member of her crew missing. Three craft are unaccounted for.

The storm penetrated the south below the border states with a fall of 17 inches at Nashville, Tenn., and heavy falls in Virginia, Kentucky and the western Carolinas.

3 DIE IN SOUTH

Atlanta — (AP) — Three deaths, several injuries and demoralized traffic in Virginia, Kentucky, the western Carolinas and Tennessee was the toll taken by winter's two day brush in Dixie. Warmer weather again was forecast for Friday.

A bus driver and a Negro farmer lost their lives in North Carolina as a result of the ice, sleet and snow. Another Negro died while shoveling snow in his Clarksville, Tenn., home.

GLAZIER RACKET PROBE IS BEGUN IN CHICAGO

Chicago — (AP) — A glazier racket, which prosecutors said yielded approximately $500,000 a year to a so-called "union" system, was under investigation by the special grand jury Friday.

As the start of what the state's attorney's office said would be a determined drive against rackets, 20 class contractors were called in Thursday to tell of their dealings with self-styled union heads who forced monthly tributes from them.

The contractors said they were forced into a "dealers" association through a collusive agreement between certain "unions."

Thirty-eight firms, who are threatened with a strike unless they comply, are forced to send all plans to the "estimating" company, prosecutors said, where the plans are approved, the amount to be charged determined and a percentage of the bill deducted for the services.

MAN STRUCK WITH AX IN MILWAUKEE FIGHT

At one of the fires, three families of Mexicans were brought to safety through smoke. Damage here amounted to about $2,500, while a loss of $1,500 was suffered in the other blaze which razed Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Kaufman and their 6-year-old son, Carl, from bed.

SIX MEN ARRESTED IN MILWAUKEE RAIDS

Milwaukee — (AP) — Six men were arrested by federal dry raiders in a series of small raids here Friday night. A city detective reported that at one place he obtained a quart of wine from a 16-year-old boy.

Loses Point

Murder Car Is Located In Chicago

Efforts to Destroy Auto Lead to Discovery — Solution Near, Is Claim

Chicago — (AP) — The killer's car used in last week's gang massacre has been found, police said Friday. In a garage not three miles from the scene of multiple murder.

Efforts to destroy it led to the discovery, for an acetylene torch used to cut through the steel frame ignited the garage. Firemen, finding the garage and on parts of the car, believed themselves near solution of the worst gang outrage in Chicago history.

Early Friday Deputy Police Commissioner John Stege said: "There is good reason to believe the Moran murders will be cleared up within a few hours."

Arrests followed quickly after police established to their own satisfaction the identity of the automobile. Shortly before dawn a squad went out on a secret mission which Lieut. William Cusack, squad leader, said would solve the slayings.

Police Commissioner Russell's sweeping command for search of all garages or other buildings fronting on alleys probably prompted the hurried effort to destroy the motor car.

The owner of the garage, located in the heart of "Little Sicily," is Leo Joppet, who operates a grocery store. He told of renting the garage on Feb. 12—two days before the gang killing—to a "Mr. Rogers," who said he wanted it for a month and paid in advance.

Harry Stansbury, assistant state's attorney, and Deputy Police Commissioner John Stege at the conclusion of a long conference, refused to discuss the theory on which they are working or the facts they have learned.

"We've let you newspapermen picture us as jinxing 14 or 15 theories about these murders," Stansbury said. "That was fine. It led the guilty persons to believe we don't know what we are doing. We are proceeding along a straight line, but are not going to disclose it."

APPROVE TWO MEN FOR U. S. RADIO COMMISSION

Washington — (AP) — The nominations of Arthur Batchelor of Massachusetts, and J. M. Jansky of Minnesota, to members of the Federal Radio commission, were approved Friday by the senate interstate commerce committee on condition that the senate accept a section in the pending radio bill which fixes the expiration of the terms of radio commissioners on Feb. 23, 1930.

This in effect would give Batchelor and Jansky one year terms in place of the longer periods for which they were nominated. Jansky is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin.

Special Committee's Final Report Says "Vare Is Not Entitled to Seat"

KING PROTESTS ACTION

Utah Senator Submits Minority Report Against Immediate Decision

Washington — (AP) — The senate's special investigating committee Friday submitted a final report recommending that William S. Vare, Republican, be denied a seat as senator from Pennsylvania.

The committee took into consideration, however, the previous declaration of the senate that Vare be given an opportunity to present his case personally and declared that "in view of the present physical and mental condition" of the senator-elect it was for the senate to determine "what action is proper in the premises."

Vare is now confined to a sick bed in Florida. It is not expected that action against him will be pressed in the closing days of this session.

On the basis of the committee's first report on its inquiry into expenditures by Vare in his three-cornered race for the Republican senatorial nomination in Pennsylvania in 1926, the senate declined to administer the oath of office to him.

Senator King, Democrat, Utah, submitted a minority report from this committee protesting against closing the committee's inquiry until Vare had been given an opportunity to be heard. King also made the suggestion that Vare be sworn in before the senate took final action.

Other members of the committee, including Senators McNary, Oregon, and LaFollette, Wisconsin, Republicans, joined in the report of Chairman Reed.

TRACES CASE HISTORY

The voluminous report cited in detail the evidence disclosed by the committee in its inquiry in 1926 into the Republican primary campaign in Pennsylvania and its later investigation into the returns in Philadelphia.

Commenting on the inability of Vare to appear before the committee as proposed by Senator King, the report declared: "It seems strange that the committee should have been asked to continue this case for months when counsel for Mr. Vare evidently did not contemplate the introduction of any substantial evidence, and, in the end, relied almost entirely upon an agreement which could as well have been made months ago as at frequent committee hearings."

"It is the opinion of the committee that William S. Vare is not entitled to a seat in the United States senate."

The committee, however, directs attention to the term of the senate's resolution agreed to in December, 1927, (granting Vare a right to appear and argue his case to the senate) and respectfully submits that in view of the present physical and mental condition of the said William S. Vare it is for the senate to determine what action is proper in the premises."

In presenting the majority report, Chairman Reed gave notice to the senate that he would call it up for action Saturday.

KOEHL PLANS TO MAKE REFUELING OCEAN HOP

Berlin — (AP) — Refueling processes developed by the American plane Question Mark will be depended upon by Captain Herman Koehl to make possible a flight from Berlin to New York, possibly in June.

Friends of the captain, who with the late Baron Ehrenfried von Huenneberg and Col. James Fitzmaurice first negotiated a westward air crossing of the north Atlantic, say he has decided definitely on the flight and probably will select Laslon, the Azores, and Bermuda as refueling points.

Colonel Fitzmaurice and two others as yet unnamed are expected to accompany him.

The machine of the type designated as G-24 will be used. It is expected the trip will take about 50 hours.

APPROVE TWO MEN FOR U. S. RADIO COMMISSION

Washington — (AP) — The nominations of Arthur Batchelor of Massachusetts, and J. M. Jansky of Minnesota, to members of the Federal Radio commission, were approved Friday by the senate interstate commerce committee on condition that the senate accept a section in the pending radio bill which fixes the expiration of the terms of radio commissioners on Feb. 23, 1930.

RADIO TO BE USED TO GET GOVERNMENT MATTERS TO PEOPLE

Senator Borah Will Be First Speaker Saturday Night, March 2

BY ROBERT MACK
Copyright 1929 by the Consolidated Press Association.
Washington D. C.—(Second Story)—Official, important alluring Washington, the birthplace of the laws of the nation and its executive headquarters, is about to make further use of the radio in getting close to the people.

It was announced Wednesday that through an arrangement with the Washington Evening Star, a nationwide hook-up of 50 stations of the Columbia Broadcasting system will broadcast beginning March 2, a weekly radio forum for the discussion of outstanding questions of the hour. The Star's "national radio forum" is to be broadcast at 10 P. M. Eastern Standard Time, each Saturday, starting with Senator Borah, of Idaho, chairman of the Foreign Relations committee as the first speaker.

The Star's plan is intended as a step toward making the radio an instrument of good government and is in line with the recently announced policy of the Columbia system to put on from Washington original programs of an educational character.

As the inaugural speaker of the Forum, Senator Borah has chosen for his topic the Inauguration of Herbert Hoover as President, to occur two days after he makes his address. He will speak on inaugurations and their significance in the life of America.

The following Saturday, March 9, Speaker Longworth of the House and Senator Moses, president pro tem of the Senate, will discuss the approaching special session with congress.

DEBATE FARM RELIEF

On the succeeding Saturday arrangements have been made for Senator McNary, of Oregon and Senator Smith, of Missouri, to debate farm relief legislation. Since the object of the forum is to keep the program open from week to week for the discussion of problems of national importance as they arise no further advance schedules have been arranged.

"The idea of public service ever will be kept foremost in formulating the programs which are to feature the Star's national radio forum," says Oliver Owen Kuhn, managing editor of the Star. "We believe it would be an instrument looking toward the building up of stronger ties between the people at large and their government. Statesmen and high dignitaries who have kindly contribute their efforts to the venture are deeply impressed with the idea of bringing Washington closer to the people."

"Great public questions, national and international, will be discussed from time to time by distinguished men who have most to do with the formulation of governmental policies."

"Every effort will be made to conduct these programs along big, broad lines and the axe-grinder need have little hope that he will ever have the privilege of facing the microphone. Informative and constructive information, all sides of all questions will govern and, we hope, before many weeks have elapsed, that a greater interest and more sympathetic viewpoint concerning affairs in Washington will be built up by virtue of these radio programs."

Noise In High School Is Only Debaters Practicing

A chance visitor wandering through the second floor corridor of Appleton high school between 5 and 6 o'clock of any school day evening would no doubt, be horrified at the noise issuing from behind the closed door of one of the rooms in the northeast corner of the building. A mighty roar of human voices—high squeaky ones, middle pitched ones and low growly ones would offend his ears. A Chinese class, perhaps? Oh no, nothing so foreign as that, merely high school debaters having a regular practice session. Their coach, Miss Agnes Huberty, is trying out a new recipe to produce finished debaters from budding material.

The system is one by which Wittenberg college debaters, Springfield, O., won for the third consecutive time the Ohio Conference championship. Their coach, Prof. Paul R. Brees, has formulated a unique system by which he puts a dozen or so collegians in a single room with order to "talk their heads off." Each debator has his own little speech and he goes through it from beginning to end, endeavoring all the while to drown out his competitors.

When the debaters seem to have adjusted themselves to this delightful situation, Prof. Brees throws in a few hecklers to distract the speakers and also has a few chairs tossed about to provide the needed competition. In addition, trained listeners are ushered in from time to time who help the situation along with a little judicious applause now and then.

Although Appleton debaters haven't been given the recipe in its full strength, they do manage to raise a fairly respectable racket. The purpose of the system is to bring out expression, produce a convincing tone and to strengthen the voice. Members of the high school squad are Lawrence Morris, Norman Clapp, Merlin Pitt, Ruth Cohen, and Virginia Ritten.

GASOLINE TAX AND LICENSE FEE PAY HIGHWAY PROGRAM

State Engineer Explains Method of Financing Road Work in State

Madison (AP)—The gasoline tax and the license fee are the agents for financing Wisconsin's highway program, according to Walter C. Buetow, state highway engineer.

Mr. Buetow explained this view in an address here Friday before members of the Engineering Society of Wisconsin at their annual meeting here.

Motor vehicle owners, through their government, must determine the amounts to be spent annually. Mr. Buetow said. "We stand at the threshold of a great transition period." The public must decide progress, he explained.

The pay-as-you-go policy, which is written into the state's constitution was condemned by the speaker who said the only true pay-as-you-go plan is the bond plan.

The engineer said 47 counties in Wisconsin have voted bond issues to the amount of $58,000,000.

"Wisconsin has not reached the limit in regard to license fees and gas tax," declared Mr. Buetow, who stated further that Wisconsin ranks 26th among the states in regard to the average license fee a vehicle and 42nd as to average receipts from the gas tax a vehicle.

"It does not appear from this," he said, "that the traveling public of Wisconsin is overburdened with this form of taxation."

C. M. Osborn, city manager of Shorewood, in a discussion of "City planning," today told engineers that it was a mistake for a city planner to attempt changes of the whole structural design of a city as if he had been permitted to plan it from the beginning.

"The best city planning," he said, "while promoting beauty, aims to give citizens a more healthful and attractive place in which to live."

"The city planner has sometimes lost sight of the fact that his greatest efforts should be spent in planning for the future growth."

In a discussion of Mr. Osborn's paper, Prof. H. P. Janda, of the engineering school of the University of Wisconsin stated that failures which occurred in city planning have been due to a number of weaknesses in the planner.

Unfamiliarity with local conditions, a borrowing of ideas from others, too much emphasis on changing existing districts of a city, failure to sell the idea to the community and a failure of the planner to follow up were cited as some of the weaknesses.

"If the city planner would exhibit some knowledge of human nature," Prof. Janda said, "he would stress those features of his plan that could be accomplished at once without great expenditures of funds. He would further impress upon both city authorities and citizens that to put a city plan into effect requires years of gradual growth rather than immediate construction."

Daily Lenten Thought

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

A survey of the history of Lent reminds us, among many interesting things, of the way in which customs, and even religious observances, become interwoven with material needs and interests.

We see this in our own time in the immensity of the commercial interests associated with Christmas. In this commercialism many have feared lest the spiritual meaning of Christmas be lost and it become little more to the mass of men than a time to be exploited for mere pleasure or gain.

Those who have this fear might well consider how the Lenten season has taken on an increasing sense of its holiness, despite the fact that this season also was once widely exploited for material ends. The eating of fish in Lent has not been wholly a matter of religious practice. In earlier times when the fishing industry of England was threatened one means of seeking to stimulate and protect the industry was by the passing of laws that made the substitution of fish for meat during Lent a legal obligation instead of a voluntary religious practice.

Customs are what we make them for ourselves.

NEWS OF NEENAH AND MENASHA

SOCIETY

REFORESTATION IS STUDIED THIS WEEK BY BOYS BRIGADE

Value of Work Is Pointed Out by Leaders of Organization

Neenah—Boys Brigade groups at their Monday and Tuesday meetings listed the industries of the twin cities that are dependent upon forests. The lists showed approximately 1,600 citizens of Neenah directly employed in enterprises which look to wood and wood products for raw material. That means that with the families of these 1,600, one-half of Neenah's population is dependent on forest products for a livelihood.

Reasons for the constantly receding forests were discussed, as were the effects on a small community when an industry migrates. It was seen that the community income is less, real estate values decline, schools and churches run down, surrounding farmers have less outlet for their products.

One can see such towns in our own state where large lumber mills have been abandoned. It was pointed out that the question was asked whether industry was to blame or whether it is the responsibility of citizens to see that laws are made which permit timber owners to grow timber and be relieved of ruinous taxation while they are doing it.

The 1927 legislature in Wisconsin put the Wisconsin Forest conservation law on our statute books. This is a start in the right direction, it was agreed.

Fathers of present-day Neenah will not live to see the fruits of it. Meanwhile wood will get scarcer, prices higher and the pinch will be felt more severely by every citizen.

In another decade reforestation will loom up as one of our most pressing public questions and the voters of that day will ask why their fathers and grandfathers did not see where we are headed for, knowing that it takes 50 years to grow a tree, it was said.

THREE INJURED AS TRAIN STRIKES CAR

Miss Ruby York, N. Morrison-st, Receives Fractured Nose and Jaw

Neenah—Three Appleton persons, Ruby York, 213 N. Morrison-st, John Lappen, Jr., 608 N. Morrison-st, and J. Meizer, Brewster-st, were injured and the car in which they were riding was badly damaged Thursday evening when they were struck by the northbound Chicago and Northwestern passenger train at the E. Forest-ave crossing.

Miss York received a broken nose and jaw and severe cuts from glass from the broken windshield. Pappen injured his foot and knee, and was severely cut, and Meizer was cut about the hand and arm.

The auto approached the crossing where a freight engine was standing from the east. The driver, watching this engine, apparently did not see the light from the approaching passenger train and started across the tracks. The car was struck broadside and was dragged nearly 100 feet before it was thrown beside the track. The passenger train was approaching slowly on account of repairs on the switch tracks at the entrance of the yards. Miss York was huried to the hospital. The men were cared for by physicians at their offices.

DEPARTMENTS OF STATE COOPERATE IN GOOD WILL TOUR

Urge Early Arrangements for Those Desiring to Go on Long Trip

Madison—(P)—The state departments of markets, agriculture and conservation assumed active interest in the second annual Wisconsin Good Will Tour, to the southeast, by making public their degree of participation and urging "early arrangements for those wishing to make the trip before reservations are filled."

The conservation's department participation became evident with the arrival by express of several large fish, mounted on great boards that are to cover the walls of the conservation exhibit car. One of these boards covered the whole floor of a Ford express truck.

The department of agriculture sent to radio station WLEB, and the Stevens Point Daily Journal, cooperating with the station, an outline of the "cow-to-carton" dairy-barn, dairy-cow, ice cream-making machinery exhibit to occupy the first two cars of the train.

Announcement was made of the latest exhibit—space purchasers, a Clintonville automotive company and a Winnebago canning concern.

Dane county is putting an exhibit on the train, the department announced. The state highway commission will double its efforts at showing Wisconsin's highways leading to the state's recreational and beauty spots, to cooperate with the conservation department's display of the tourist-attracting scenes.

One car will be devoted to conservation department scenery and facts.

The agriculture department announcement said plans were being drawn for a Wisconsin luncheon in Washington sometime before or after the inauguration of President Hoover. At this luncheon Wisconsin products will be the major part of the menu. Cheese, cherries, milk and peaches have already been provided for this luncheon.

The state department of markets issued a descriptive letter on the tour, in which the recreational and booster elements of making the trip were displayed, and invitation was issued for Wisconsin boosters to cover the 3,100 miles the train will make.

Interest which the tour is arousing in the southern states is evidenced by a clipping from the front page of a Raleigh N. C., newspaper, received by W. A. Duffy, commissioner of agriculture.

1,500 EXPECTED AT MUSIC CONFERENCE

Milwaukee—(P)—Ten states and a Canadian province will send delegates to the biennial convention of the North Central Music Supervisors conference here April 16 to 19. According to present indications approximately 1,500 delegates will come to urge "Music for every child—every child for music."

Miss Ada Bicking, state director of music instruction, Lansing, Mich., and president of the North Central Music Supervisors conference, has selected committees to arrange for the conference plans.

Milton C. Potter, superintendent of public schools, Milwaukee, has been named general chairman. Herman F. Smith, director of public school music in the executive secretary. The general committee includes Walter Alexander, Frank E. Baker, the Rev. J. J. Barbian, Miss Irene Born, Miss Lucia Briggs, Robert L. Cooley, Miss Ethel Gardner, Mrs. H. F. Godeke, William Kastner, Alvin H. Hanson, the Rev. William M. Magee, S. J., and H. Schumacher. All are Milwaukee educators.

On the program are concerts, demonstrations and lectures. The mixed chorus, composed of students of midwestern college and conducted by J. Lewis Browne, Chicago, will be present as will the Lyric Male Chorus, Milwaukee, A. Capella Choir, Michigan, Negro Choir, Evansville, Ind., and delegations of Milwaukee school children.

Delegates will come from Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, Ohio, Wisconsin and Ontario.

STATE HAS 154 MILES OF FEDERAL AID ROAD

A total of 9,753 miles of Federal-aid highways were improved in the 48 states of the union last year, according to a report issued by the bureau of public roads of the United States department of agriculture. Of this total 7,825 miles of road had not been previously improved with federal aid and 2,128 miles was brought to higher stages of construction. Only 31 states participated in the last program.

Wisconsin had 106 miles of road improved in the first class and 48 miles of road in the second class. It stood twenty-sixth in the list of states in the first class and twelfth in the list of states in the second class.

At the end of December, 9,216 miles of federal-aid roads were under construction and 1,597 were approved for construction.

The Inaugural Pageant

JAMES A. GARFIELD, 1881
By Alexander R. George
Washington—(P)—President-elect James A. Garfield, Ohio Republican and one-time carpenter, was "perfectly at ease and handled his stove pipe hat with skill" as he saluted the multitude of inaugural spectators who cheered him from the White House to the Capitol March 4, 1881. Escorted by the famous Cleveland cavalry, General Garfield rode with President Hayes in a four-in-hand carriage drawn by fine bays. When the signal gun was fired to start the procession, the spirited horses cavorted a little, but the experienced head of Albert, the veteran presidential coachman, "made them more decorous."

At that time the Grand Army of the Republic was in its prime, the young Professor Sousa was the leader of the marine band, and fine old sherries were selling for $3 a quart. Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman was grand marshal, and several divisions of "the boys in blue" were in the parade. "Solid citizens, every man of them," the West Philadelphia club attracted more attention than any other civilian group. They wore long ulsters of grey mixture, stove pipe hats, tight colored gloves and rich hosiery.

An impromptu participant in the parade was a little yellow dog which followed the presidential carriage. A year before, the same dog had followed General Garfield, as he got off a street car, to his home. The general, noticing the dog, threw him a piece of meat and forgot the occurrence until he met the same dog on the same corner the next day. Following him home again, the dog was rewarded with more meat and he took up temporary quarters at the Garfield home.

Fifty thousand people, their lunch baskets adding to the congestion, were massed on the Capitol grounds to watch the inaugural ceremony. General Garfield wore a black suit, frock coat, black necktie and gloves. Vice President-elect Arthur wore light trousers, a blue Prince Albert coat, colored necktie and light gloves.

"The senators evidently took an extra precaution with their toilets," says a newspaper of that day. "Conkling wore a dark suit, the very pink of the tailor's cut. From the left hand pocket protruded a red silk handkerchief and in the upper buttonhole was a red ribbon."

Immediately after taking the oath of office, President Garfield turned and kissed his mother and then his wife. After the ceremony he returned to the White House and reviewed the procession from a large stand erected in front of the grounds. "It is a plain wooden stand, no better than those erected for spectators except that it is surmounted with a wooden eagle," says a contemporary description. "The White House grounds were in gala dress. Lines of streamers and signal flags ran from tree to tree across the semicircular drive to the entrance and across the lawn itself, lighting up the grounds with their gay colors."

"The columns of the portico of the tall-like looking building where the President of the United States works out his sentence of four years at hard labor were decorated with evergreen and in the pediment of the jortico was large glass star which blazed out tonight in the red, white and blue."

The social demands made upon a quiet, home-loving woman as First Lady is thus described by E. V. Smalley, a visitor at the White House during the Garfield occupation:

"There is always a great deal of curiosity in Washington when a new president comes in, to learn how the lady of the White House is going to treat the public. Naturally the social public is eager to be entertained and honored by opportunities to call and chat and show its fine clothes and talk afterward about what is going on in the presidential circle."

Naturally too, the wife of a president, while wishing to perform well the duties of her station, is desirous of keeping her family life from being broken up. So there is a conflict of forces going on for a time. Mrs. Hayes settled the question in favor of the public and gave it, I think, much more of her time than any of her predecessors.

"Mrs. Garfield seems disposed to draw the line so as to divide her time more fairly to herself and family. She will give only two evenings in the week to receptions, and is determined to keep as much as she can her old home ways—her reading of books and magazines, her oversight of the education of the children and her care of her household and all its intimates."

'SARGON BROUGHT HAPPINESS TO US'

"I Am So Grateful For The Results I'm Telling All My Friends."

"Sargon certainly brought happiness into our home, and I am so grateful for the results it has given us that I have told all my friends about it."

MRS. JOHN GALGER

"Having seen the wonderful improvement in my husband's health from a course of the Sargon treatment, and being in a run-down condition myself for the past six months, I too, decided to begin taking this new medicine. My troubles must have been caused by a 'torpid liver' because my complexion was sallow, and I was constantly bilious. I often had gas pains and shortness of breath for hours, and at times I felt like my heart would stop beating. I had pains in my back and the least work would cause my back to ache so that I could hardly stand up straight. I was very nervous and would lie awake at night for hours."

"I have taken two bottles of Sargon and am feeling better than I have in years. It has given me a wonderful appetite and I can eat anything without having the slightest indigestion or gas pains. I sleep at night like a tired child."

"Sargon Soft Mass Pills act on the liver better than any medicine I have taken. My complexion is so cleared up that my friends all remark how well I look."

The above statement was made recently by Mrs. John Galger, of 368 First Ave., Milwaukee. Sargon may be obtained in Appleton from Voigt's Drug Store and in Kaukauna from H. G. Brauer.

Riverside cemetery filled almost to capacity. It has become necessary to bury some of the bodies. Under present weather conditions, it takes almost an entire day to dig one grave, but the work will be continued until the congested condition of the depository is somewhat relieved.

According to J. E. Ballard, assistant superintendent of the Appleton Cemetery association, this is the first year the vault has been so crowded. At present there are about 50 bodies in the depository, which means that only four or five more bodies can be handled.

In 1928 there were 207 bodies buried in Riverside cemetery, as compared to 200 the year before.

LEVITAN EULOGIZES GEORGE WASHINGTON

Waterloo—(P)—George Washington, political scientist of the 18th century, was eulogized here Thursday by Solomon Levitan, Wisconsin's state treasurer and a 20th century political scientist. The occasion was the Washington's birthday banquet of the Masonic Lodge of Waterloo.

The first president typified the qualities of leadership that is composed of high ideals and strength of purpose, which has led advocates of right over might to victory, the speaker asserted.

"The rare balance of his judgment, his unselfish devotion to duty and to the cause of independence, his courage, his marvelous insight into character, his abiding faith in God and his absolute integrity and purity of motives," said Mr. Levitan, made

George Washington a leader of the time. These characteristics, he explained, outshone the brilliance attributed to Hamilton and political wisdom attributed to Jefferson by some writers.

"Was a Mason? I will be proud of this famous brother of our Order," Mr. Levitan declared. "George Washington was a Master Mason, one of the finest representatives of our Masonic ritual."

"We do not doubt but that this upright, righteous stand throughout the period of his leadership was strengthened by his Masonic teachings, so firmly cemented in his mind."

A NEW ORDER IN PARDONS

We read in the press dispatches that in Governor Kohler's first consideration of applications for pardon ten appeals for clemency were denied. In making the announcement the governor said: "I have carefully considered the record in each, but in none of them am I satisfied that there has been a miscarriage of justice or that there are other extraordinary circumstances of such gravity as to warrant the exercise of the pardoning power."

We welcome this obvious change in executive policy with reference to our penal system. It is in sharp contrast to the policy which has prevailed for some time, not only in this state but in other states, conspicuously Illinois. Gov. Small of the latter state has made the pardoning power an incentive to crime and a mockery of justice. He has turned loose the most notorious murderers, quite obviously because of their connections with vicious politics.

In our opinion both Governors Blaine and Zimmerman carried the pardoning prerogative too far. The former was especially lenient toward offenders whose social theories coincided with his own. It is obvious to the most casual observer that we have had a woeful breaking down of law and government during the last ten years. In no period of history in any civilized country has there ever been a record of crime comparable to that of the United States. Chicago has sunk to primitive depths of lawlessness. Juries and courts have been contaminated by widespread tolerance and even encouragement of crime. There are hundreds of acquittals where there ought to be convictions, and where there is conviction the punishment is invariably too light. Chicago has had more than 500 murders in recent times without a single execution and comparatively few arrests.

When governors interfere with administration of justice, which is notoriously weak and inadequate at best, they are making themselves a party to the scandalous contempt for law and order that already exists. Governor Kohler can and doubtless intends to reform this menacing situation so far as it lies in his power by refusing clemency except in cases that are clearly deserving. As conditions stand today the odds are all on the side of the criminal and against society. We will not make progress in our solution of the crime problem and the restoration of broken down government until the order is reversed.

START TOWARD PROHIBITION ENFORCEMENT

After listening to a storm of invective against prohibition and all things pertaining to it, the senate voted 75 to 18 for the Jones bill to increase penalties for prohibition violation, and the measure goes to the house. The change in penalties is directed against major offenders, that is those guilty of conspiring to violate the eighteenth amendment for commercial gain. It applies to the extensive and highly profitable business of bringing into the United States and selling liquor worth hundreds of millions of dollars annually.

It strikes at the seat of gang warfare in our large cities. It may and probably will be inadequate insofar as putting an end to conspiracies is concerned. But no one can object to punishing these men more severely if they persist in their unlawful operations. The problem of prohibition today is one of honest attempt at enforcement. Ultimate control of the liquor traffic by law is another matter. We are not going to be able to enforce any law until we make a bonafide start in that direction.

WASHINGTON TODAY

It is impossible to pay new tributes to George Washington. His own deeds and thoughts long ago placed him first among great Americans. History, recording those deeds and interpreting them in the light of later developments, still accords him first place among the founders of our nation and gives him high rank among patriots and statesmen of the world.

It would be a fine thing for current thinking if citizens desirous of paying honor to Washington on this day would do so by turning back to his own life and sayings. An hour or two spent in re-reading his Farewell Address, and in directly relating the principles it sets forth to present-day life and needs, ought to stimulate some very helpful thinking.

Union, liberty, true patriotism are there set forth in their finest aspects. The unwisdom of petty sectional prejudices, of narrow partisanship, of fractional blocs, is made extremely clear in that address. An understanding of Washington's attitude toward the constitution ought to have a beneficial effect on the popular attitude toward that somewhat abused document in these days.

There is hardly a contemporary national or international problem which would not be brought closer to its right solution not by doing some specific thing that Washington recommended for his day and generation, but by approaching it in the spirit in which that open-minded and far-seeing statesman and patriot would have approached it.

A SHRINE TO GENERAL LEE

The movement to purchase the boyhood home of General Robert E. Lee and transform it into a national shrine is attaining country-wide proportions. Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York is the latest distinguished person to agree to serve on the national advisory board for the project.

A couple of decades ago there undoubtedly would have been a good deal of unthinking hostility to such a plan. In many parts of the north there would have been protests against honoring "a rebel." But the passing of time has brought added wisdom. North as well as south, it is now universally realized that Lee, for all that he fought against the Union, was a great man and a splendid American. He is one of the few Civil War heroes whose place in the national affections becomes more firm each year. It is perfectly safe to predict that the movement to turn his birthplace into a national memorial will not meet a dissenting vote.

OWNING A HOME

Some interesting statistics on home ownership are presented in a recent press bulletin from Walter F. McDowell, president of the U. S. League of Local Building and Loan Associations. To begin with, Mr. McDowell reveals that fully half of the homes in the United States are owned by men earning less than $2,000 a year. At least 90 per cent of the people who buy homes do not pay for them outright, but borrow the money from building and loan or similar institutions. And he adds:

"Any person who is willing to live within his income and who really wants a home can manage the small, regular and systematic deposit of a few dollars each week or month to build up the required savings."

The growth of individual home ownership in recent years is a good sign. For all the prevalence of installment buying, we still have the thrift habit.

Wallpaper discovered some years ago at Christ's College, Cambridge, is now believed to be the first made in Britain. Its date was apparently 1509, for on the other side of the paper appeared a poem concerning the death of Henry VII and a proclamation of Henry VIII.

The Remedy is Worse Than the Malady

THERE SHOULD BE prolonged debates on snow removal funds. A few months more and nature will solve the question by sending Old Man Winter away on a long vacation. So why talk about more funds?

But Harold the Seer says if 'taint one thing, it's another. He says wait till they begin to enforce the modesty-while-bathing ordinance. That'll be a tough job, but an interesting one.

Trouble is, they intimate that the darn thing isn't over with a little basketball tossing. Later the girls get ambitious and take to rolling pins.

I wonder if that "ferce goddess named Pa-le, whose bath was in the mighty crater" of Kilauea, reads the Book of Knowledge in the Post-Crescent. On Tuesday there was an account of how Kapiolani defied the superstition of the natives by throwing berries into the fire of the crater. That was a long time ago, but what's a hundred years to a goddess? On Wednesday Pa-le began to speak, and Kilauea began erupting that morning. You may call it coincidence, but it looks to me as if that female was considerably peeved. Maybe she was asleep when pretty Kapiolani hurled her challenge. Or maybe a hundred years to a goddess is what a minute is to us.

—Mack of the Doons.

The chemist was becoming wearied. He had been explaining and pricing dozens of articles to the shopper, who didn't really want to buy anything at all. Finally she picked up a bottle. "Is this East Extremator reliable?" she asked. "How is it applied?"
"You take a tablespoon every half hour, ma'am," the chemist replied with fendish emphasis.
No more questions were asked.

Doctor—Perhaps you drink too much coffee. I should advise you to try a substitute.
Patient—Doctor, your advice is superfluous. I have lived in a boarding house for 25 years.

"I wonder whether Jack will love me when I'm old?" wondered the wife to her very dearest girl friend.
"You'll know pretty soon now, dearie," assured the other.

APPENDICITIS WITHOUT BENEFIT OF DOUBT

Surgeons have always made a rather long incision when operating for chronic appendicitis, whatever that may be.

A Philadelphia surgeon whom I shall not name recently created quite a warm reaction in an audience of surgeons—not exactly a bluish, but just a kind of flush of annoyance—by implying in not very blunt terms that there is no such malady as chronic appendicitis, or if there is, then patients would be better off if not subjected to an operation.

It looked to me as though this Philadelphia iconoclast had caught 'em with blood on their hands, and they were plumb annoyed about it. As a representative body of our greatest operators sat their figuratively gnawing their teeth at the spilling of the beans by the bull in the china shop, the queer one from the city of brotherly love went on to twist them with the length of the incision they generally make when bent on removing the appendix or whatever else fails to impress the operator as quite normal—not only did he taunt them about the enormous length of the incision for the removal of such a simple little structure, but he declared that "exploratory" operations were generally futile anyway. But, my goodness, had the man no sympathy at all for the young surgeons—most of 'em begin very young nowadays, in fact they're born that way—had the Philadelphia radical (it seems high time to dub him that) no compassion for the formidable diagnostic difficulties the eager young operator encounters. Yes, perhaps experience would help in such quandaries, but how is a tyro to get experience without wasting several valuable years of time in dreary practice? It is so much more profitable to cut right in and search the territory exhaustively. After a man has done a few hundred operations he becomes to have little flashes of wisdom, such as the lovely general medical practitioner acquires only through years of unappreciated toil.

There was no panic in this memorable convention. The surgeons should worry! One or two ventured to insinuate that he didn't agree with all the Philadelphia man said though. . . . An X-ray man put up the best defense for the diagnosis of chronic appendicitis, and for a nice long incision—more or less, he admitted that there were unquestionably too many operations done for presumptive chronic appendicitis, and he believes other well recognized conditions (which we shall not name here) account for the symptoms that mislead the brilliant young operator into the diagnosis of chronic appendicitis. Still and all, this X-ray man insists there are some cases of real chronic appendicitis, and he believes other well recognized conditions (which we shall not name here) account for the symptoms that mislead the brilliant young operator into the diagnosis of chronic appendicitis. Still and all, this X-ray man insists there are some cases of real chronic appendicitis, and he believes other well recognized conditions (which we shall not name here) account for the symptoms that mislead the brilliant young operator into the diagnosis of chronic appendicitis.

Quite a string of surgeons present sounded off at a considerable length perhaps in the hope of talking the thought to death, but when they had run out of wind the Philadelphia gentleman with red teeth with this final remark: "If those of you who feel that we are wrong about this matter of chronic appendicitis can recognize such a disease, we should like to know on what you base your diagnosis."

That's the big secret! I reckon this chronic appendicitis thing is something like the common cold—every fool knows what that is, and so the old does will never define it. QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
That Ultraviolet Bath
A while ago you gave directions for making a window or screen at a cost of 25 cents to admit the ultraviolet rays of sunlight so that one could take a sun bath in cold weather. You kindly repeat the directions? Wishing you many more along so swimmingly.

years in which to publish your interesting and instructive health talks. (Mrs. E. O.)
Answer—The estimate I gave was perhaps a shade too low. I merely quoted that from the man who inquired about the screen—A. H. Pfund, Ph. D. Since I quoted that price I tried to make one myself, and my impression is that about $17.50 a corner would be a fair estimate for a small screen. However, Dr. Pfund unblushingly assures us that his window can be replaced at a cost of 25 cents, and here is how he directs the making of the window:

A light wooden frame consisting of two identical portions connected by hinges. Nail one inch or two inch mesh chicken wire to the inner side of both frames. Lay a sheet of cellophane on one frame and fold the other frame over upon it, so that you have a chicken wire cellophane sandwich. Insert several screws to hold the halves of frame together. Insert the frame in the window casing, having first taken the glass window out of the casing. Such a window withstood the weather a year in Dr. Pfund's laboratory, and still retained its transparency for the ultraviolet rays. Cellophane in sheets a yard wide, of various thicknesses and any desired length, from the Dupont Cellophane company, Fourth avenue at Thirty second, New York, N. Y.

Do not permit my estimate, revised, to deter you from having your ultraviolet bath. It may be that my Stanley plane needs adjustment by a factory expert. It doesn't cut corners very well, except the corners of my thumbs and knuckles. (Copyright John F. Dille Co.)

TOO MUCH CRITICISM

Now that Outagamie County is in the throes of the most severe winter weather, perhaps since the winter of 1881, snow and below zero weather has been in evidence of this fact during the past six weeks or more, when our city and county highway commissioners, have been taxed to capacity using their best efforts in keeping the highway in condition for traffic by removing the snow. We do not deem it reasonable or fair that criticism should creep into any extent. People who have observed the conditions during the past, should be well aware that this is an unusual winter, as our records will show that up to the present time the snow fall has been upward of five feet with a continual amount of wind and the county roads are filled very frequently causing an untold amount of time and labor and at times it has been almost impossible to cope with the situation. Such conditions may not prevail again for many years to come. While the present snow equipment may have proved

CHANGED DIET ONE CAUSE FOR SLUMP IN CATTLE MARKET

Consumption Is 25 Per Cent
under Normal in Places
Because of Prices

EDITOR'S NOTE: (In America the roast beef of old England has now been supplanted by salads and dairy products to no small degree. In this dispatch J. C. Royle traces the influence this has had on the cattle industry and how with other factors it has cut over a billion dollars from the "paper" value of the herds of America.)

BY J. C. ROYLE

Copyright, 1929

New York—The recent slump in the cattle market has been the most severe in years. It has dropped prices around $4 a hundred pounds and has lopped off from the paper value of the livestock of the country approximately $1,000,000,000.

Everett C. Brown, president of the Chicago Livestock Exchange estimates that in the last six months, $1,375,000,000 has been worn off the country's cattle.

Several reasons are advanced for this situation. It is evident that demand for beef, owing to high prices during the last year has been so curtailed that consumption in some sections is 25 per cent under normal. Some experts say that the fact that markets are clogged with beef which cannot be sold and that consumers still have to pay high prices is attributable to the drop in the prices of hides. It is an acknowledged fact that meat is sold on a narrow margin of profit and that by-products have not a little to do with establishing prices.

DIET HAS CHANGED

Still other statisticians call attention to the fact that the diet of the American public has changed materially. They say that the inhabitants of this country eat 45 per cent less meat than 10 years ago. At the same time consumption of salads has increased 110 per cent. Pastry has dropped off in consumption 25 per cent, white bread 29 per cent and potatoes 15 per cent. Items of diet which have increased are ice cream, 70 per cent; malted milk, 65 per cent; whole milk, 62 per cent; fresh fruit 39 per cent; fresh vegetables and whole wheat bread 35 per cent; cereals 34 per cent, canned fruit 33 per cent; poultry 25 per cent and eggs 11 per cent. These figures are compiled from a survey of restaurant and hotel records.

In this list may be found the reasons for the remarkable profits which some farmers have gleaned from the dairy industry and the losses in some other lines.

Strong efforts are being made to induce growers to withhold cattle from market until the situation can adjust itself. Production of beef in this country, according to experts, is not too high and even with the present drop there are profits in sight for many producers. Breeding herds have been reduced to a minimum and while they are being built up, the supply does not seem likely to be burdensome.

The present congestion, many declare is due to forcing as many animals as possible on the market in order to take advantage of prices while they are high. There has been some protection due to the embargo on beef from the Argentine where foot and mouth disease is prevalent but a flood of Argentine beef would be disastrous to growers.

MORE PEOPLE TO FEED

There are now about the same number of cattle on farms as in 1923 but there are 20,000,000 more people to feed. Steers, however, owing to improved feeding methods, can be marketed younger than in past years. An official of the department of agriculture, in outlining the situation, declares that while there will be reasonable price fluctuations and periods when prices for fed cattle will be depressed, owing to temporarily increased marketings, a long continued decline in the price level is not likely to occur.

As to other meat animals, the growers have not much complaint. The sheep industry has been fairly prosperous and lamb prices have been relatively high, though production has been increasing. The slaughtering of lambs has increased at the rate of 400,000 a year but flocks are more numerous now than for 15 years. Lamb consumption in the last year amounted only 5.4 pounds per capita and livestock men foresee a big increase in the consumption of lamb and mutton.

Hog prices have not been entirely satisfactory to breeders and feeders, but there is a silver lining to their cloud in the form of decreased production. Moreover the demand for pork products from abroad has been highly gratifying and prices have been strengthened.

COMMODITY NOTES

Coal—Chicago—There has been a sharp increase in coal production in Illinois mines in the last month with 6,882,000 tons produced against 5,833,000 a year ago. The 139 mines employed 55,000 men who worked an average of 21.1 days.

Fruit

Atlanta—General reductions of 15 per cent, on refrigeration of peaches, melons, berries and fruits from Southeastern states to New England and North Atlantic cities on trunk lines are expected to benefit both consumers and growers, if plans of co-operatives materialize. The order effective Apr 15 will embrace practically all of the 1929 crop.

Brick

Newcastle, Pa.—Work is now being pushed on the Pearson brick plant at Volant. This will replace with a new plant the one destroyed by fire last autumn and will have a capacity of 350 tons of brick daily.

Coffee

New Orleans—A total of 2,894,000 bags of coffee were imported through this port in the last year. It was necessary for the dock board to spend $2,000,000 to build a new green coffee terminal. The damage to col-fee from floods in Brazil is not expected to cause any marked drop in imports here.

Cleveland—Makers of auto parts in many cases are employing night shifts as well as enlarged day forces. Lamson and Season, one of the largest makers of nuts, bolts and

SIDE ROADS STILL PRESENT PROBLEMS TO MAIL CARRIERS

Rough Riding and Huge Drifts Still Common on Many Highways

Special to Post-Crescent.
New London—Rural mail carriers still are completing their routes under extreme difficulties. Side roads present the most obstacles and both horses and carriers return to town weary from combating heavy snow. The road through Caledonia and Lebanon is one of the worst stretches.

Travel on the main traveled roads, though a trip into the country brings some relief, is still difficult. Drifts, like drifts, which mount higher than cars. Residents along country roads find the winter months an economy in the matter of wear and tear on their mail boxes. Drifts are so high that carriers cannot approach them, and mail boxes, boxes, pails and other queer receptacles are pressed into use as substitutes. One carrier stated that during the past month he has replaced his mail-kag-mail-box six times, owing to snows which covered it over or winds that rolled it away.

New London—Notwithstanding the severe cold and heavy snow of the present winter, New London's needy poor have made fewer appeals for aid than in many years past. This condition is traced to the efforts of city aldermen, who in their wards have made personal investigations into the cases and have been instrumental in cutting down much expense. ## TOWN REFUSES TO MOVE "COLUMN WITH A CURSE"

Augusta, Ga. —(P)—Sentiment which for 46 years has allowed "the column with a curse" to stand in the middle of a sidewalk, won out recently when a paving program made practicable the removal of the queer relic of a tornado's fury.

The column, once the pillar of the city market house, has stood at Broad and Center streets ever since a tornado hit Augusta in 1878. Old citizens say that an itinerant minister, claiming the gift of prophecy, predicted that the old market house would be destroyed the day after his sermon. He declared that but one of the big pillars supporting the market house would be left standing and declared that any attempt to move the pillar would be fatal; that the person who tried it would be struck by lightning.

As it happened, a tornado hit this town the next day and only one pillar of the market house was left standing. Some years ago city officials said the pillar would have to be destroyed to permit certain street repairs. A large number of workmen carried the pillar about 50 feet. There was an explosion and they dropped it. And today the pillar stands where the workmen dropped it when some practical joker exploded a firecracker.

London Officer Tells How He'd Handle Chicago Thugs

London —(P)—Strike at the top use the lash and eliminate delay in administration of justice, urges Ex-Chief Detective Inspector Arrow, formerly of Scotland Yard, in writing on the "Daily Express" on how he would clean up Chicago.

Arrow resigned from Scotland Yard to take up a special appointment under the Spanish Government as Chief of the Detective staff at Barcelona.

"If I had to clean up Chicago," he says, "I should start at Washington. Washington must first be made to realize that criminals should be punished and not pampered. The machinery of the administration of justice needs a drastic overhaul. Murderers: must no longer be allowed to escape capital punishment as long as the money lasts. Justice must be speeded up. The inevitability of the English criminal law would work wonders if it were applied in America."

"Politics should be divorced from police work. There should be an end to graft in high places. It clogs the wheels of the machinery of justice."

Ex-inspector Arrow suggests one criminal investigation department for the whole United States and one central records office for the registration of criminals. "Instead of a multiplicity of police forces that often work at cross-purposes and fail to pool their resources and information."

"It is essential," the former Scotland Yard man says, "that legislation should be passed and enforced so that criminals will no longer be able to buy and carry weapons with impunity."

Arrow declares: "Another suggestion I would support strongly is that of Judge Kavanagh, that the use of the lash would go a long way toward suppressing terrorism. As the judge has said, 'No underworld lord can retain the respect of his followers after he has been flogged.'"

East Bays Eliminate Appleton From Title Running

REPEAT THEIR WORK OF WEEK AGO AND
AGAIN WIN, 15-14

Orange Seconds Crash Through to Victory in Overtime Period

IT'S all over but the shouting—Appleton high school's quest for the Fox river valley basketball championship, and oddly enough the kick into oblivion comes from the same team that beat the Orange out of the football title, East Green Bay. Elting out a victory by the same margin it defeated the highs just seven days ago, the Red Devils have arranged things so that Manitowoc and Oshkosh will fight for the championship at the Sawdust city Friday evening. And what a battle that promises to be. The sport scribbles throughout the valley probably will pick up the remark someone passed a few days ago that Appleton's "clinch" schedule proved to be a boomerang. They have reason to but after watching the highs and East battle twice within a week it appears that the gods looked with favor on valley teams when they sent them to bed with an infected and then sent them back again, generally run down, just as the two crucial games came along.

Appleton's two defeats can be laid to but one thing—the fact that Rafoth wasn't able to play at all in the fracas at the Bay and spent just one minute in Thursday's battle. Breitrick did his best to take his captain's place but the youngsters' best was not enough against a big fellow like Roesser not a close defense such as the Bays put up.

When the game started the Orange elected to drive within the invader's defense to try for field goals but as their efforts proved futile they changed their tactics to long range shooting, and in that particular sport the Bays have it all over other teams. Led by Roesser, big center, with four field goals, the Red Devils stood in the middle of the floor and uncorked a first round good shot to give them the game. They made but one free throw during the whole evening's procedure. The game was practically a duplicate of the one played at East last week. Appleton started the scoring, but superstitious folks recalled the old baseball gag that if a pitcher starts out the first man to face him he'll lose, and their team soon was well founded. The invaders overcame the lead although the Orange crashed through on a couple free throws and a long toss by Berg and led 6 to 5 at the quarter, the only time during the game excepting the first minutes.

There was little to note during the second quarter for the Orange counted a lone point on free throw and the Bays again took the lead on a long heave by Roesser and another by Red Daman. The count at the half favored the Bays 9 and 7. Efforts for the third quarter netted each team the same number of points the second quarter had. Berg made a free throw to give his team eight points while Roesser heaved another long shot and Meyers got into the scoring column to push the Bays totals to 13.

Staging their usual, but this time futile dash in the fourth quarter, the Orange ran up six points while the invaders counted two, a field goal by Wayland Becker just as played started. Appleton's scores came on a free throw by Tamm and a field goal by Breitrick. The count was then 15 and 14 in favor of the Bays and in a last desperate effort Shields elected to send Benny Rafoth into the game. The big fellows tried his hardest to find the hoop but the Bays are a husky, busy bunch of youngsters and they hung onto the ball until the gun announced their defeat.

Coach Leland DeLong's second squad fared a bit better than the Appleton first team. With the count tied at 21 all at the end of the regulation period the reserves crashed to a victory in the overtime when a Bayite fouled Lonsd and he made one of the two free throws. The final score was 22 and 21, the game being the best the scrubs have played this season. They lost to the Bays last week.

PERCY WILLIAMS WINS CANADIAN TRACK HONOR

Toronto (AP)—Percy Williams, flying feet have brought him the Canadian national indoor 60-yard championship in record-equaling time.

The slim Vancouver sprinter, Olympic 100 meter champion, was beaten in one of the final heats of the 60-yards at the Canadian National Indoor Track and Field championships here Thursday night but came back to win the final in 6 and one-fifth seconds, equalling the world's record.

In the semi-finals, Williams off to a bad start was second by half a foot to G. D. Powell of Toronto, a comparative unknown. Powell failed to place in the final.

THE HARDEST WORKING HEAVYWEIGHT

Young Stribling's Life Story

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the third chapter of the story of Young Stribling's life written for the Appleton Post-Crescent and NEA Service, Inc., by Milton K. Wallace of Macon, Ga., a lifelong friend of the Striblings.

BY MILTON K. WALLACE
YOUNG STRIBLING, who at the age of 24, has held the southern championship of every division from the bantamweight class upward, has fought 240 battles since beginning his career in 1921, winning 114 of them by knockouts. In this number he has been defeated by only seven opponents.

The year 1923 found Stribling engaging in one of the most active periods of his ring career. He met and defeated such men as George Shade, Young Marullo, Harry Krohn, Johnny Klesch, Johnny Dancy, Vic McLaughlin and Happy Howell, besides a score of lesser known fighters.

One of the hardest bouts of his career came at this time when he lost a close decision to Frankie Carbone, veteran middleweight. Carbone, a tough battler of the old school, had many years of experience behind him, while Stribling had been in the fight game for a little more than two years.

The newspapers of the south were alarmed and said Pa was fighting

W. L. too much. The eastern and northern fight fans had not yet heard of the Macon flash.

"You are burning him out," the scribes said, but Pa's reply was that he knew his son's condition better than anyone else and that although he appreciated their advice, he would continue to allow him to fight just as often as he saw fit.

The senior Stribling has often been criticized for "picking set-ups" for his son.

"Boxing is a business just like the legal profession," he said in reply to this charge. "We are not in it for glory alone everybody wants to make money and we are not exceptions to the rule. You never hear a lawyer criticized because he takes an easy case once in a while, nor a doctor criticized because he will take cases other than fatal diseases. Look back through the records of all the world champions of the past, and you'll find a lot of unfamiliar names."

Public opinion has never bothered Pa to any great extent. He has become callous to the squawks of the press, and particularly the criticism heaped on him by eastern sport writers. He has his own ideas about how a fighter should train, and consequently has carried his boy to the top of his profession.

There was possibly one mistake that Pa made in training Young Stribling—a mistake that was never mentioned by the press. In two of the most important battles Stribling ever had, the fights with Paul Berlenbach and Tommy Loughran, which he lost, Stribling was over-trained. Pa was really "burning out" his son by training him too severely, but not by permitting him to fight too often, as it had been charged.

Over-work was largely responsible for both of these defeats, although there were other factors that contributed their part to the failure. Pa thinks now that he has solved the training problem. He prescribes but very little work in the gymnasium, a mile or two jaunt in the open air and plenty of fights with second-rate fighters to keep Young Stribling in practice and the Stribling coffers well supplied with currency.

Stribling's fame was a long while spreading beyond the confines of his own state. After he had grown into the middleweight class, Pa believed his son was ready to tackle the best, and through promoters at Columbus, Ga., a deft was hurled at Johnny Wilson, who then occupied the middeweight throne. Wilson, always a cautious individual, had heard rumors concerning this southern novice and decided that caution was the better part of valor.

The "Macon schoolboy boxer" fought many times during his brief stay in the middleweight division. Sport writers all over the south continued their cry that Pa was ruining the boy's chances by allowing him to fight so often, but the return ex-audience actor turned deaf ears to the criticism. The money was pouring in and bigger purses were promised in the future. It took experience to make a fighter, he said, and he was going to see that Billy had lots of it.

Young Stribling's stay in the middleweight class was a brief one. He was growing steadily, his arms were becoming larger, his shoulders were getting broader and his muscles were becoming tough and wiry sinews that rippled over his body. There had been some doubt in the senior Stribling's mind whether or not Bill would ever grow into a full fledged heavyweight, but with this almost phenomenal development in the course of five brief years, Pa's hopes grew stronger.

SHARKEY CHANGING STYLE FOR BATTLE OF THE EVERGLADES

Stribling Continues to Clinch and Fail With His Right

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

MAMI BEACH, Fla.—(AP)—Circumstances and the breaks went the game seem to be working hand in hand to leave none but the echoes of the ballyhoo thunder for two young heavyweights who will swap punches in the center of Flamingo park next Wednesday night.

In all probability there never has been another major heavyweight battle in modern fight history where training efforts or two such principals as Boston Jack Sharkey and Young Stribling, Georgia's slugging pride, went so completely in the picturesque scenery of the battle-ground or so overshadowed by the personalities of such figures as Jack Dempsey and Doughty Bill Carey.

Yet the young contenders have worked along steadily in the shadow of arguments over referees and rules, lost amid dogged perseverance that has built the fight from almost a certain failure to an assured success.

The Sharkey of today is something northern fans have not seen for more than three years. He has shaved his hair down to the figure of his first commanding victory, the conquests of the Negroes George Godfrey and Harry Wills more than three years ago. The Boston sailor scaled only 137 pounds after his latest work out and promises to enter the ring under 191. His waist is slim and trim, and movements lithe and eager, and every movement denotes absolute confidence in the outcome of the battle of the Everglades.

Sharkey is back to the clever style of fighting, the clean, accurate, but not over-heavy punching that wore down his first major opponents. He invites his sparring partners to corner him on the ropes where he practices weaving and rolling with punches.

Stribling, who scales about 183 pounds, also seems to have changed his style. The Georgian still dotes on close work where the left hand is caught in a clinch with the right free to slug overhead to the head and underhand to the body, but he has discarded almost entirely his famous rushing attack to close quarters.

WOMEN SET NEW SINGLES PIN MARK

No Other Changes Chalked Up at Oshkosh Bowling Tournament

Oshkosh (AP)—Shattering the high singles total in the women's state bowling tournament here Thursday, M. Strawn, of Burlington, shot into first place with 505, to have O. Joseph of Fond du Lac, break this with a 514.

O. Joseph, the new leader in the singles, shot games of 159, 170 and 185, while M. Strawn had games of 184, 171 and 150.

Few changes were recorded in the other divisions, with the exception of the doubles in which C. Nehls and W. Weiss, of Fond du Lac, went into third place with 924, P. Steuerwald and M. Behrens, of Milwaukee, tied for fourth place with 921, and E. Roenitz and A. Spring, of Oshkosh, went into sixth place with 905.

Malone's Lucky Five F. O. E. No. 267 went into sixth place among the booster teams with 1,870.

M. Behrens, of Milwaukee, had the honor of shooting the high game of the tournament when she shot 230 in her doubles game. She bowled 137, 230 and 171 for a 538 set.

"Macs," McKenzie and McFadden, performed in their usual brilliant manner and handled the puck faultlessly, but Gordon Melkjohn and Gallagher stopped them.

Fights Tonight

One of the biggest bouts of the west coast fight season will be staged Friday evening at San Francisco when Mickey Walker, above, meets Jack Willis. The two fought some time ago. Walker winning the decision.

GILBERT KRUEGER STARS AS BADGERS BEAT M. U.

Madison (AP)—Wisconsin's mighty atom, "Baby Dynamite" Gilbert Krueger, was the balance of victory for the Badgers in a wild hockey game here Thursday night, which saw the state school down Kay Iverson's fleet Marquette university six-1-0. The Hilltoppers took a 9-0 victory in Milwaukee several weeks ago.

Little Krueger drove a screaming shot past Goale Buck, of Marquette, 11 minutes after the second period had opened and from that point on the Johnny Farquhar's Badgers played a defensive game and stopped numerous Marquette thrusts.

Oshkosh Stars Dropped On Eve Of Title Game

Oshkosh — The Oshkosh High school basketball team on the eve of its game with Manitowoc, which may mean the winning of the losing of the Fox river valley conference championship, has been disrupted.

Any Tadych, forward and Earl Hiesberg, center and guard, have been dropped off the squad for the remainder of the school year.

The report circulated was to the effect that the men were "kicked off" the squad for going on a sleigh ride party, but this Coach E. J. Schneider denied Wednesday morning.

"That sleigh ride party was nothing," Schneider declared. "It is this late-to-practice business and the haphazard manner in which they go to practice," he declared.

QUESTION OF DISCIPLINE
"It just came to a point of having discipline and a fair team or no discipline and no team, in time," Schneider pointed out. "Last Friday the men were instructed to be on the floor at 4 o'clock and the game was to start at 4:15 o'clock. At 4:10 o'clock, I had to go over to the Index dance and 'drag' the men off the floor," the Oshkosh coach declared. "We have easy training rules, consisting of no smoking and in bed

TWO LITTLE NINE GAMES AT KIMBERLY

Villagers Meet Wrightstown, Little Chute Battles Seymour

Kimberly—This village will be the scene of another double-header Friday night when the K. H. S. squad plays Wrightstown, and the Little Chute Hi five will be host to Seymour in the clubhouse floor. The Little Chute game is being played here on account of the poor athletic facilities in that village at present. Both local teams have been practicing steadily this week.

On Thursday evening the Hollanders and the Papermakers engaged in a scrimmage battle which ended in a 33 to 22 victory for the Kimberly Indians. Both teams played mediocre ball and showed only streaks of good team work.

Schwartz, with 11 points and Versteegen with nine were the high scorers of the game. Last week's Little Nine games resulted in three changes in the Conference standings. Hortonville, by losing to Seymour in a hard fought game 23-19, dropped from fourth to sixth position while Seymour climbed up into fifth place. Kimberly defeated Wrightstown at Wrightstown and is now in possession of the fourth rung of the ladder. Brighton nosed out Little Chute in a hectic game at Little Chute 14-12 and by so doing kept its slate clean and remained in a tie with Denmark for first position. The Brillion-Denmark game at Brillion Friday evening will break the first place tie and the deciding factor in the championship race. Victory for the Papermakers over Wrightstown would give them a chance to obtain possession of third place in the final rating.

Two local girls teams will play a preliminary at 7 o'clock.

CONFERENCE COMMENTS

The Little Chute team is to be congratulated on its splendid improvement since the beginning of the season. Coach Gunderson had an inexperienced squad to begin with and started the season with the unimposing record of four straight defeats. In the next fringes, however, they took the measure of Hortonville, one of the league leaders. Last Friday Brillion, a team which is tied for first place, was forced to the utmost to nose out a two point victory at Little Chute.

If it were not for hard luck in early season games, three of which were lost by one point margins, Kimberly would at present be one of the strongest contenders for the Conference title. One of the last eight games played, Coach Berger's squad has called away six victories.

The Jinx still appears to be camping on the trail of the Hortonvilleazers. After defeating their first three conference opponents, the Hortonville basketballers have dropped four straight Little Nine games.

RIVER FALLS WINS FROM EAU CLAIRE

Eau Claire (AP)—Gaining a lead after the first whistle and never headed, the River Falls state teachers' college basketball quint defeated the Eau Claire teachers in a conference tilt here Thursday night, 23 to 18.

Following the half-time period with the score at 11 to 8, the River Falls five gained more speed and took a 10-point lead, holding a safe lead to the finish.

With this victory, the River Falls team holds second place in the conference standings. The Falls cagers will play their final conference game with the Superior teachers, the undefeated leader in the conference race, Thursday night, Feb. 23.

Last Friday, was not played due to weather conditions. Mr. Carlson and his cagers had to turn back within three miles of their destination on account of the impassable roads.

The jinx still appears to be camping on the trail of the Hortonvilleazers. After defeating their first three conference opponents, the Hortonville basketballers have dropped four straight Little Nine games.

Stribling Family Sure Of Victory Over Sharkey

Experts Think W. L. Is Drawn to Fine but Pa and Son Say "No"

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third of a series of daily articles from Miami Beach, Fla., in which Henry L. Farrell, NEA Service sports editor, whose articles appear in this city exclusively in the Appleton Post-Crescent, sizes up the coming Stribling-Sharkey fight of Feb. 27.

BY HENRY L. FARRELL

MAMI BEACH, Fla.—There seems to be only one thing certain in the minds of Pa Stribling, Ma Stribling and their son Willie, as the date approaches for the boy's fight here with Jack Sharkey.

They are going to win the fight, they tell you. And they give the most reasonable arguments in their very nice polished way.

It seems, they insist, that young Bill was predestined and preordained to be the heavyweight champion of the world. His career was made out for him by a sort of providence and now all that remains between him and the goal is the Sharkey man and perhaps that Dempsey person who is helping to promote the fight.

"Money isn't the thing with us in this fight," Pa Stribling said and the boys nodded assent.

It is hard to get the boy to talk about himself. He operates on the theory that his father is much better qualified to talk. He can use bigger words, the boy says, and his conversational gear runs at many more miles an hour.

"As I was saying," Pa went on, "money isn't everything to us in this fight. We are not poor people and we are not great big millionaires, but I think we proved that this wasn't a money fight with us. We wanted more out of it than money."

"We talked with Tex Rickard. He gave us our price and we agreed and there were no papers signed and, when those things happened as they did, we talked again to Mr. Carey and we said that our understanding with Rickard could be written off and we would do business again with the corporation.

"And we did. We are in there fighting for a percentage of the gate and I don't know what our end will be and I have not been near the box office to see. We are not interested in the money angle. What we want to do is to get in shape and we are doing that."

"The experts who have been peering at Sharkey and Stribling in their workouts think that Stribling is too fine. He has been fighting a lot here and there all over the country and the weather has been very hot here. Sharkey claims that the weather advantages should be for Stribling."

"What's he squawking about the weather for, Sharkey asks. 'He is a guy from the south, ain't he? He ought to go big on the hot stuff.'"

The boy and his father, however, do not think they are losing too much weight.

"I know what I ought to weigh," the boy says. "I've always been kind of skinny. They used to call me the strapping a long while ago."

"I don't need a lot of work to get in shape. All I need is the exercise to get my mind in shape, because I think I will need a lot of wind to catch that fellow."

"He runs plenty, they tell me, and I'll have him running. Just about two rounds is all I'll have to go in this fight and I am not excited about that referee business. Anybody can count 10 and that's all I'll need in there—a counter."

Stribling says that he has a battle plan mapped out and that it is not a complicated plan.

"I'm just going to hit him in the middle," the boy said, and Pa and Ma nodded.

"That fellow Sharkey doesn't like to be hit in the body. We all know that, and you newspapermen know it." It was observed by the experts in several of Stribling's workouts with his rather inferior sparring partners, that he was winging punches into them rather close to the belt line. Pa was asked if the boy was training on foul punches and he denied it, of course.

"He is developing a new punch to the body," Pa said. "He uses this new punch with a downward twist of the wrist instead of bringing it up and with those great pillows on his hands they look like low punches, but they are not. Ask the sparring partners, they are not low."

Since Dempsey dropped Sharkey with the hook to the body everyone seems to think that Sharkey is a mark for body punishment.

It is reported around here that Stribling is to be the winner and that he has even sent some words of advice to the boy. Give it to the guy in the belly, he is reported to have told him, and if he didn't tell him he has been telling every other person.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

THE Army Cadets have 152 more games scheduled for this year against opponents from 71 colleges. . . . And they'll play them at everything but oar-ing. . . . Syracuse (the town, not the school) is to send a five-man bowling team to roll in the world's championship at Stockholm in June. . . . Gus Sonnenberg, the rassing champion, says his only idea being in the rassin' racket, is to gather dough. . . . The rest of the rassers maybe are in the business for the love of the sport. . . . Like Tilden, the tennis player. . . . Who is not the world's hardest worker. . . . After involving all the newspaper copy readers in the country in an argument, Max Schmeling, the German prize fighter, settled it. . . . By writing his signature with one "B" instead of two "ells." . . . Zbyszko never did leave the copy readers out of do-it. . . . And maybe it isn't spelled right here. . . . And some of the boys still tell him he has been telling every other person.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
RUTH LESTER, pretty private secretary to "HANDSOME HARRY" BORDEN, promoter of dubious stock companies, becomes engaged to JACK HAYWARD, young insurance broker, whose office is just across the narrow alleyway from Borden's. On a Saturday morning in January, the promoter has two women callers: RITA DUBOIS, night club dancer, who is to accompany him to winter Haven for the week-end, and his estranged wife and mother of his two children, who comes for her monthly alimony.

When Miss BORDEN learns her husband is here, she tries to restrain but before leaving glimpses the pistol in Ruth's desk. Jack, fearing trouble with hold-up men, has bought two identical weapons and gives Ruth one.

While Ruth takes dictation Borden finds a playful pass at her and she screams a protest which Jack hears. He is furious.

When on Monday morning she finds the body of Borden sprawled on the floor near the window, Ruth reviews Jack's strange behavior. She runs to his office and, finding him out, she frantically rings for the police. It is gone! Jack comes in, calls the police. Fearing Jack shot Borden through the open window, Ruth rushes to close Borden's window. It is already closed! When DETECTIVE McMANN arrives, he finds that the $500 in cash which Ruth admits getting for Borden for his week-end trip is gone. McMANN questions Ruth. She admits her engagement to Jack and with a horrible fear that almost smothered her, she begins her story of Saturday's happenings.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER IX

Ruth pressed her fingers to her temples, in a mighty effort to remember clearly the features of the old man who had threatened Borden's life on Saturday. When she had talked with him her mind had not been upon him or his threats, but upon that first disturbing evidence of Borden's interest in her as a girl, not as a competent private secretary.

"He was about 60, I think," she told the detective slowly, and did not see McMANN, who was past 50 himself, wince at her unintentionally cruel words.

"He was wearing a shabby black overcoat with a velvet collar, which had flakes of dandruff on it. I remember, for I felt sorry for him, he looked so helpless. I can't tell what color his eyes were, but he had on old-fashioned steel-rimmed spectacles. His hair, sort of long, I think, was gray, and his face thin and hollow. He seemed tall, but I'm so short that nearly everyone seems tall to me," she confessed.

"I can't really remember what he said, for he was muttering most of the time, but he did make a few 'gettings even.' Said he'd teach 'that crook' a lesson, bring him to his knees—things like that. I don't really remember, for I was trying to soothe him and get rid of him. I had a lot of work to do, and I knew it was all so hopeless, that Mr. Borden wouldn't see him or make any restitution."

McMANN, who had been jotting down her description of the defunct old man, scowled and then told her to go on with her story.

"Before writing these letters I went to the bank and to the station to get Mr. Borden's tickets for Winter Haven. After I returned and gave the money and tickets to Mr. Borden, Benny told me that Mrs. Borden had called on the phone to say she was coming in. She and Mr. Borden were not living together."

"I know. Legal separation, with court allowance for her and the children. About five years ago," McMANN interpolated. "What did she come to see him for?"

"To get her separation allowance," Ruth answered, reluctantly. "Mr. Borden had been ordered by the court to pay her each month on the fifteenth and he made her come for it in person. To get news of the children, I suppose," she added, in a futile attempt to gloss over the dead man's malicious cruelty to his wife.

"Well? Did she come?" McMANN asked, busily taking notes.

"Later," Ruth answered, flushing. "But before Mrs. Borden arrived Mr. Borden had another caller—Miss Dubois, Rita Dubois."

"Oh?" McMANN whistled, raising his thick eyebrows. "The dancer from the Golden Slipper, eh?"

"Yes. Mr. Borden saw her there two or three weeks ago and—liked her."

"So the other ticket and the drawing-room were for Rita Dubois?" McMANN deduced triumphantly. "Rand, get headquarters on the line again—or say, have the central telephone office tie up one of these lines for headquarters calls. Tell the chief to have Rita Dubois brought here as soon as she can be found. What's her telephone number, Miss Lester? I suppose you know it, if she and Borden were friendly."

Ruth reached for her desk calendar and turned to the leaf devoted to the previous Tuesday. "It's Piedmont 0400. Miss Dubois has a private phone and I don't know her address."

"Got that, Rand? . . . All right, Miss Lester. Did Rita and Borden quarrel? Exactly what happened?" Jack Hayward sat down upon the edge of Ruth's desk and laid one of his hands upon her two clenched, icy little fists. She looked at him gratefully, her eyes brimming with love, before she went on: "No, they didn't quarrel. They seemed very happy. I could hear them laughing, although the door was closed, while they were in—there," and Ruth jerked her head toward the private office which was a temporary morgue for the man who had laughed and loved on Saturday.

Mrs. Borden came while Miss Dubois was with Mr. Borden and I told her he was—in conference, and she made an appointment to come back between half-past one and two. Mr. Borden had told me he would be in his office until about two, since his train would not leave until 2:15 and he planned to lunch on the diner."

"With Rita Dubois?" McMANN shot at her.

"He did not tell me who was to go with him," Ruth answered truthfully. "And Miss Dubois did not take me into her confidence either. I do know, however, that he planned to take a woman, for he had me wire for reservations at the Winter Haven Hotel, in the name of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Benton. The drawing-room reservation was made in that name also."

"All right!" McMANN made a note. "What next? When did Rita leave?"

"Shortly after Mrs. Borden—about five minutes," Ruth answered.

McMANN's constant interruptions and questions had shunted her off the subject of Mrs. Borden, but she was not sorry that there was no opportunity now to tell him of the poor, discarded wife's jealousy and humiliation—a humiliation so keen that she had become ill. Why tell McMANN now about Mrs. Borden's having seen the automatic pistol in the bottom drawer of the desk? Time enough to tell if it should become necessary.

McMANN turned again to the policeman who sat at the telephone, an extension of which was on the absent office boy's desk. "Get the chief again, Rand," As he waited for the connection, the detective turned to Ruth with another question: "Hear or see anything between Borden and Rita when she was leaving?"

"I can't really remember what he said, for he was muttering most of the time, but he did make a few 'gettings even.' Said he'd teach 'that crook' a lesson, bring him to his knees—things like that. I don't really remember, for I was trying to soothe him and get rid of him. I had a lot of work to do, and I knew it was all so hopeless, that Mr. Borden wouldn't see him or make any restitution."

McMANN, who had been jotting down her description of the defunct old man, scowled and then told her to go on with her story.

"Before writing these letters I went to the bank and to the station to get Mr. Borden's tickets for Winter Haven. After I returned and gave the money and tickets to Mr. Borden, Benny told me that Mrs. Borden had called on the phone to say she was coming in. She and Mr. Borden were not living together."

"I know. Legal separation, with court allowance for her and the children. About five years ago," McMANN interpolated. "What did she come to see him for?"

"To get her separation allowance," Ruth answered, reluctantly. "Mr. Borden had been ordered by the court to pay her each month on the fifteenth and he made her come for it in person. To get news of the children, I suppose," she added, in a futile attempt to gloss over the dead man's malicious cruelty to his wife.

"Well? Did she come?" McMANN asked, busily taking notes.

"Later," Ruth answered, flushing. "But before Mrs. Borden arrived Mr. Borden had another caller—Miss Dubois, Rita Dubois."

"Oh?" McMANN whistled, raising his thick eyebrows. "The dancer from the Golden Slipper, eh?"

"Yes. Mr. Borden saw her there two or three weeks ago and—liked her."

"So the other ticket and the drawing-room were for Rita Dubois?" McMANN deduced triumphantly. "Rand, get headquarters on the line again—or say, have the central telephone office tie up one of these

PRISONER'S IDLENESS DUE TO NEW HARVESTER
Topeka, Kas. — (AP) — The combine harvester is the cause of idleness in prison as well as the means to more leisure labor in the great open spaces matted with wheat fields.

The machine which cuts and threshes in one process, enabling there or four men to do in a few days the work for which a harvesters' crew and a threshers' crew needed weeks has reduced the consumption of binder twine.

Twine for tying sheaves of grain cut by binders has been the principal product of penal labor in Kansas for many years. But so many binders have been displaced by combines in this important wheat-growing state that authorities of the state penitentiary at Lansing can find no market for the product of the factory that once enabled them to keep convicts busy.

The problem will be presented to the legislature next January, when a commission appointed by the governor will recommend establishment of other industries at the prison.

NEW DEVELOPMENTS FORCING MERGER OF CARRIERS IN U. S.

Earnings Are Improving, but Executives Determined to Strengthen Selves

BY J. C. ROYLE
Copyright 1929

New York—Physical and financial developments in transportation are forcing developments toward the merger of the carriers of the country. This became thoroughly evident today with a study of the applications for absorption of roads that have just been presented to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The earnings of railroads have been improving steadily. In 1928 the net operating income of the class 1 carriers was approximately $1,194,865,000. This was a gain of 10 per cent as compared with 1927. In December the first 104 roads reporting showed a gain compared with December 1927, of 71.5 per cent.

Still the position of the roads is anything but impregnable, and the railroad executives are determined to strengthen it through mergers and consolidations which cut down the constant menace of overhead.

It is this which is behind the application of the Baltimore and Ohio for permission to acquire ten railroads and to acquire joint control of five others. This application was followed by a similar application for the right to acquire other roads by the Van Sweringen system. It also is operative in other parts of the country. The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe has just applied for authority to acquire control of the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient railway of Texas, the Texas subsidiary of the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient which it already controls. The Missouri, Illinois and North Western has asked permission to acquire the Missouri River and Bonne-Terre railways, and the Missouri Pacific has asked permission to control the Missouri-Illinois.

Many other plans for consolidations will be presented in the not distant future according to present plans.

What the Interstate Commerce Commission can do about these applications is uncertain. The Interstate Commerce Act provides that the Commission must first prepare and make public a general plan of consolidations before acting upon individual applications. The body has notified Congress that if legislation is not passed at this session, permitting it to act individually on the plans as submitted by the carriers without making a comprehensive plan, it will go ahead with formation of a plan. That certainly would entail a long delay.

A bill is now pending in the Senate which would amend the present consolidation provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act by authorizing the Commission to approve unifications of carriers on petitions filed by the roads, but it is not certain whether this will be passed before March 4.

Traffic trends still are upward, so far as freight business is concerned. The average gain in January was 3.12 per cent as compared with January 1928. The outlook for passenger traffic is less certain. Bus and airplane services are regarded as sure to cut into the rail passenger traffic to some extent. The consolidations should enable the carriers to cut off unprofitable lines and trains and synchronize bus and airplane services with their combined train movement.

In 1928 the revenue passenger traffic by the class 1 roads was about $800,000,000 or $20,000,000 less than five years ago. It is unlikely the railroads will permit airplane transportation to get too far ahead of them as was the case when the bus companies started to cut in on their revenues. It is also extremely likely that further electrification of rail

HOOVER PONDERES OVER HIS PROBLEMS TODAY

Washington—(AP)—President-elect Hoover had mapped out for himself a quiet observance of Washington's birthday Friday with fewer political consultations on his program than has been usual since his return from South America.

He welcomed a day of greater solitude in which he would have an opportunity to digest the results of the conference with party leaders he had held lately and to reach definite conclusions both as to the major appointments he will have to make and as to the policies he will pursue and recommend on the opening of his administration.

His inaugural address, although almost finished, has yet to undergo final revision and in certain parts actual elaboration and the president-elect hopes to make definite progress towards its completion in the course of the day.

The selection of suitable cabinet and major diplomatic appointments have constituted Mr. Hoover's chief occupation lately. Thursday numerous prominent possibilities were reviewed by him in addition to discussion of the general political situation with congressional leaders.

Decision as to the selection of an attorney general still has to be reached by the president-elect, since Senator Borah of Idaho, to whom he had offered the post decided, according to friends of the senator, to refuse the position. The Idaho senator, his friends said, felt that his greatest field of usefulness in public life lay in the senate.

Salvation Army Meeting
A Washington's Birthday meeting will be held at 8 o'clock Friday night at the Salvation Army headquarters. There will be a program of music, singing and reading. The public has been invited to attend.

Lines will be planned in the near future to foster passenger as well as freight business and cut expenses.

The completion of the proposed mergers undoubtedly will cut off some employees but the higher paid executives will be affected to a far greater extent than the rank and file of the office and operating forces.

DISAGREE OVER PENDING TARIFF ON FOREIGN ART

Champions of Measure
Claim Artists in This Country
Need Protection

BY LEMUEL F. PARTON
Copyright 1929 by the
Consolidated Press Association.
New York — Down at Mountain Lake, Fla., where Edward Bok's bell tower recently was dedicated by President Coolidge, there is a story, doubtless apocryphal, about Mr. Bok's imported English nightingales, illustrative of increasing insularity in the aesthetic world.

A year or so ago, Mr. Bok imported about two dozen of the nightingales, he being the first to succeed, although the merchant princes of the world had been trying to get them out of England for more than 400 years. It was a great victory for Mr. Bok, but the nightingales, on American soil, refused to sing a note. All the blandishments and inducements of their Florida paradise were futile. There was never a peep out of them.

At the dedication of the bell tower, the imported Belgian carillon—duty free—played "America." Then, so runs the tale—to which this chronicler does not set his hand and seal—the nightingales thought it was "God Save the Kings" and burst into song, in full choir, although the address of a Republican high tariff president had left them cold.

Today, in Washington, S. W. Seeley, of Baltimore, and Andrew E. McNelly, of Waterbury, N. Y., will move in on the Ways and Means committee of the House, crying to high Heaven against these imported carillons and demanding a tariff of at least 100 per cent, to protect the industry against the pauper bell makers of Europe. In their wake will be representatives of the American Artists Professional League and later appearing before congressional committee representatives of the American Federation of Musicians and manufacturers of pipe organs and violin makers, all seeking tariff boosts and restrictions on immigration.

LITERATURE MOVES IN
Literature, after writers had demonstrated an important political status in the presidential campaign, moved in on Congress late in November, with a demand for a tariff of 2c a word on foreign fiction. Art in America has suddenly become as intransigent as Mr. Bok's brother nightingales which might be taken as an answer to the retaliatory silence of the imported birds, duped into singing by imported bells, an imported bell ringer and an imported tune.

This fantasy narrows down to something more tangible in view of the determined battle which the American Artists' Professional League is now making in Washington in behalf of a stiff tariff on foreign art. It is the first time the artists themselves have made this fight, and the issue has been brought to a head by the fact that rich Americans incline toward foreign paintings, to the neglect of native artists. While skyscrapers and machinery have induced an ingenuous school of illustration and there is a new vitality in American art, no modern foreign artist has appeared as a patron of the American school and the home grown artists are complaining that inferior products from the attics of the Rue Edgar Quinet are taking away their livelihood.

Strongly dissenting from this point of view is Miss Genevieve A. Cowles, a member of the American Artists Professional League. Miss Cowles insists that tariffs cannot possibly offset or equalize the difference in living costs of American and foreign artists; that the exclusion of foreign paintings would be a blow to the artistic education of America; and that the artists should concentrate on inducing the public to buy their own paintings.

Robert W. De Forest, president of the Metropolitan Museum of Art likewise vigorously assails the proposed tariff on art. In a brief submitted to the Ways and Means committee today he says:

"Every reason which led to the adoption of the policy of free art exists at the present time in far greater degree than it did when the policy was adopted. In the 20 years art has been free of duty, interest in art and cultivation arising from familiarity with it have grown by leaps and bounds. It may be said that the artistic culture of this country is largely due to this principle. 'Establishment and development of art museums would be prevented, or at least retarded, by putting any barrier in the way of free entry of works of art.'

It is noticeable that the paintings now being assembled for the annual exhibition of the society of independent artists here have side-stepped foreign inspiration and are properly in accord with an intense, high tariff nationalism. The vagaries of Martinelli, Picasso, Matisse, Mondrian, Van Gogh, Cezanne and Gauguin have been scrapped and the showing, although not yet officially opened, is, altogether, a good old-fashioned conservative exhibition. Constructed authority hovers over every brush stroke and if the American artists can just find shelter behind a backed up tariff wall, there is no reason why they shouldn't illustrate the next republican platform.

Probably the millions involved here would not be worth mentioning in connection with the stake in playing it. It is possible though that increasing insularity in the creative arts—here and elsewhere—might yield a slight light on Mr. Kellogg's treaty. It has been urged that art speaks an individual language, possibly more intelligible than that of diplomacy.

Robert W. De Forest, president of

BEWARE OF DIETS WITHOUT BULK

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Will Protect You

People are more careful than ever before about diet. They diet to clear complexions. They avoid certain foods to stay thin. They eat others to get fat. But many are running a serious danger because they are missing the "roughage" or "bulk" foods that every person must have to keep well.

As a result, constipation gets in its deadly work. Headaches, listlessness, circled eyes are only the first symptoms. In the end, constipation ruins health, wrecks beauty and may cause serious disease.

Don't neglect your daily roughage. That is nature's rule. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN will supply it. A healthful cereal to eat each day. To use in cooked dishes or to serve with milk or cream. To mix with other cereals.

ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation—to prevent it. Two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal. It is 100% bran. Doctors recommend it. Your grocer sells it. Served by hotels, restaurants, dining cars. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Book Of Knowledge

Cher Ami, D. S. C.

Cher Ami, the brave carrier pigeon, not only saved the Lost Battalion from utter destruction, but proved a hero in another crisis. The division to which Cher Ami was attached crossed the Meuse river, climbed the hill and broke the enemy line. They hurried to send word back to Rampont.

Rampont was Cher Ami's home. Soldiers tied the message to the bird and he flew straight up into the air to a great height.

Suddenly he stopped, faltered and began to fall, tumbling down like a shattered airplane. But Cher Ami refused to give up.

After Cher Ami had fallen twenty-five feet or more, the bird regained control of his wings. Recovering gradually, Cher Ami began to fly, with bullets from the machine guns of the enemy zipping like a hailstorm around him. Straight to Rampont the bird winged swiftly and fell bleeding into his coop.

KAUKAUNA-LITTLE CHUTE-KIMBERLY

NEARBY
TOWNSKAUKAUNA QUINT
MEETS GREEN BAY
FRIDAY EVENING

Kawmen Hope for Victory in Tilt With West Side High School

Kaukauna—Kaukauna high school basketball team will invade the Fox River Valley league when they meet West Green Bay high school at that city Friday evening. The two teams meet every year and the contests are exciting and close.

West Green Bay has been making the same kind of a record in the Valley league that Kaukauna is making in the Northeastern Wisconsin league, a poor one. The Purple and White team received a worse drubbing at the hands of Appleton than did the Ottemen, but it was an off day for the Baymen. The two teams stack up about even in strength and a number of the hopeful fans believe that the Electric city team can win.

Kaukauna was won only one game this season. It was from Oconto Falls, who in turn defeated the Orange and Black team at the former city Tuesday evening. Kaukauna's biggest trouble was their failure to find the loop. They will be in tip-top shape for the Green Bay fray and if their shooting eye is good the Bay men will have a hard time trying to win.

The local lineup will include Landman and Toman at center, Karl and Ross Farwell and Nicholson at forwards and Main and Sager at guards. Coach Elmer Ott hopes with combinations made from these men a team can be put on the floor to tuck a second win under its belt.

A pep meeting was held in the school Friday morning. A number of students will follow the team to the Bay.

WALTON LEAGUE
CALLS MEETING

Kaukauna Chapter Will Discuss
Proposal for Closed
Season in County

Kaukauna—There will be a special meeting of the Isaac Walton league at 7:30 Friday evening in the south side Forester hall. The meeting was called to discuss a proposed two year closed season in Outagamie county on small game such as rabbits and partridges.

State Senator A. Miller has drawn up a bill to have such a closed season in this county for two years. He will be present at the meeting to explain the purpose and benefits of the bill. Having a closed season will safeguard the pheasants that have been placed in the game reserves in the northwestern section of the county, it is pointed out. When hunters are after game they are apt to shoot the pheasants if such an opportunity presents itself. All sportsmen interested have been invited to attend the meeting.

1,200 BOOKS CHECKED
AT KAUKAUNA LIBRARY

Kaukauna—About 1,200 books have been checked at the local library by Miss Kathryn Hornbrook, librarian, and Miss Bertha Beulow, student of the library school of Madison, who is assigned to this library this month. Miss Beulow is under the coaching of Miss Hornbrook to gain library experience. A detailed report is made at the end of the month of the problem and work found at the library and they are discussed at the library school. Her work consists chiefly of checking books, cataloging them and classifying them. The work of checking over the books will take another week. The book stock is being made uniform in order that it may be found easily.

MULFORD'S FIVE DOWNS
APPLETON "Y," 22-19

Kaukauna—Mulford's Twenty Five basketball five won a fast non-league game from the Appleton Y. M. C. A. in the high school auditorium Thursday evening, 22 to 19. The Kawmen played a flashy game, featured by neat dribbling. W. Miller played the outstanding game for the locals, netting three baskets. H. Roeder scored four baskets for the visitors.

FIGHT FANS PUZZLED
OVER ZWICK'S ACTIONS

Kaukauna—Kaukauna fight fans are perplexed and disappointed at the action of Phil Zwick, local boxer, who was suspended Wednesday by the Ohio state boxing commission for stalling in his six-round fight against Johnny Datto. Datto also was suspended for a year. Zwick lost his prestige in Milwaukee last fall for stalling, but Kaukauna fans backed him. The fight at Cleveland Tuesday night was ruled "no contest" by the referee.

The Post-Crescent's representative at Kaukauna is Lloyd Derrus. His telephone number is 194-W. Business with The Post-Crescent may be transacted through Mr. Derrus.

Social Items

Kaukauna—The Rev. P. Melchior was the speaker at a meeting of the Lady Knights of Columbus Thursday afternoon at the K. of C. hall on Wisconsin-ave. An educational program was presented.

The ladies of Trinity Evangelical Lutheran church will hold a lake sale at the A. J. Lemke Grocery store on Lawton Saturday afternoon. The sale will open at 2 o'clock.

There was a regular meeting of the Electric City chapter of DeMolay Thursday evening in DeMolay hall on Third-st. Routine business was transacted.

FLOWER LOVERS
THINK OF SPRING

Many Varieties of Flowers
Will Be Grown in Kaukauna Next Summer

Kaukauna—Despite the fact that there is still a lot of snow on the ground and the weather hovers around the zero mark, thoughts of flower lovers have turned to gardening. Plans are being made early this year for planting a large variety of flowers and the best kinds of flower seeds are being discussed.

Bert Fargo announced that the annual flower show will be held this summer and it is expected to be a greater success than those already staged. He has ordered a large number of seed and flower books and will be ready to help anyone interested in gardening.

Last year there were about 200 entrants in the flower show and a large number of others were unable to make entries because they had not made gardens in the spring. About 500 entries are expected to be made in the flower show this summer. The money donated by the merchants will be given to winning flowers and plants in the show.

PLAY APPLETON FIVE
IN POSTPONED GAME

Kaukauna—Royal Clothier Volleyballers will play a postponed game with Appleton at 8 o'clock Monday evening in the high school auditorium. Manager Norman Gerhart announced Thursday. The Appleton team is one of the strongest in the Fox River Valley Volleyball league. Those who will play with the Kaukauna team are Norman Gerhart, Percy Chamberlain, Harvey Dix, Rev. E. Worthman, Homer White, T. Ashauer, Arthur Vandenberg and Joseph Krahn.

LEGION BOWLERS TO ROLL FRIDAY NIGHT

Kaukauna—Legion Bowling league will roll its weekly match series at 7 o'clock Friday evening on Hilgenberg alleys. In the first shift the artillery versus the Navy and the Aviators versus the Engineers. In the 9 o'clock shift the Signal Corps versus the Infantry and the S. O. S. versus the Machine Gunners.

$32 OUTSTANDING FROM CHRISTMAS SEAL SALE

Kaukauna—There is still $32 to be collected from the sale of Christmas seals, according to Mrs. H. E. Thompson, in charge of the sale. At the present time there is $666.95. Mrs. Thompson sends out a last appeal to those who have not seals to return them or the money for them. If all the money is collected, the sale will net $698.95.

MAN FINE $3 FOR DISORDERLY CONDUCT

Kaukauna—Howard John was found guilty of disorderly conduct Thursday in the court of Justice of Peace N. Schwin. He was fined $3.

TEAM GETS STUCK IN SNOW; GAME POSTPONED

Special to Post-Crescent
Forest Junction—A rotary snow plow, which is being given a trial on Calumet-co. highways this week, stopped in this village Thursday night. The day's trip started from Potter, via Highway 114 to Brillion, and from there over Highway 19 to this village.

In spite of efforts to meet an appointment for a basketball game against the local team, the Kimberly Clark seconds were obliged to cancel their engagement here Wednesday evening. The waiting players and audience here were notified shortly after 8 o'clock that the opposing team was stalled in snowdrifts about five miles out of Kaukauna. March 6 has been mentioned as the possible date for the postponed engagement.

The Christian Endeavor league of Zion Evangelical church will observe its annual mission day Sunday evening by a special program. In addition to a discussion of the topic "Why Is Christianity the Only Adequate Religion?", special numbers include stories "Crippled Tom" by Miss Hulda Zierbel and "Thanksgiving Anne" by Miss Elsie Freitag; a dialogue "The Maid Who Went into All the World" by Misses Hattie Ott and Hattie Wink; a solo by Miss Ella Jansche; and other special vocal music by a 12-voice choir of league members. The program is prepared under the direction of Miss Mollie Stanella, chairman of

TO REMAIN OPEN
PENDING SURVEY

Locomotive Department of Shops Will Close March 1
as Previously Announced

Kaukauna—The locomotive department of the Chicago and Northwestern Railway Co. car shops here will be closed March 1 as previously announced, while the car department will remain in operation until a survey of local conditions has been completed by the company, according to word received Friday by Mrs. William Bay from her husband.

Mr. Bay, president of the Kaukauna Trades and Labor Council, and a special committee were in Chicago Thursday conferring with Fred W. Sargent, president of the road. The above decision was reached following a conference with Mr. Sargent lasting from about 9:30 Thursday morning to 7 o'clock in the evening. It was reported.

The locomotive department, the largest department in the shops, employs from 60 to 65 men, including machinists, blacksmiths, and boiler-makers. The car department employs approximately 50 men.

HOOVER MAY HAVE RADIO REGULATION THRUST UPON HIM

Prospects Slim for Extension of Administrative Life of Commission

BY ROBERT MACK
Copyright, 1929, by Consolidated Press Association

Washington—Prospects for the extension of the administrative life of the Radio Commission and of the confirmation of Arthur H. Hatcher and Prof. C. M. Jansky, Jr., as radio commissioners, are gloomy and it now appears that Herbert Hoover will have the problem of radio regulation thrust upon him as soon as he takes office as president.

The legislative status of the Watson-White Bill, in the Senate, where it is being filibustered by Senator Copeland, of New York, is anything but encouraging. The bill is at the very bottom of the legislative calendar and can be brought before the Senate only by unanimous consent. The New York senator says he will block such an agreement but is willing to modify the measure so that the commission's administrative life will continue until October 1 of this year. This will be in the nature of a compromise.

Senator Watson, co-author of the bill, which already has passed the House, insists it will pass the Senate before March 4, even if the Senate must invoke the cloture rule that would bring the bill to a vote 48 hours after the necessary two-thirds vote of the Senate to invoke cloture is obtained. Under ordinary procedure legislation can be filibustered by any one member of the Senate. But other party leaders are doubtful that the cloture vote can be obtained because of the always existent opposition to this form of legislative maneuvering and because of the short time until adjournment.

CONFIRMATION DOUBTFUL
Party leaders are extremely apprehensive about the chances for the confirmation of Mr. Hatcher and Prof. Jansky. The Senate Commerce Committee has concluded its examination of the two engineers who are appointed to take office on Feb. 23. It has deferred action, however, and there is serious doubt as to whether the Senate will get around to consideration of their appointments. Aside from this there seems to be opposition to both men, but it is being kept quiet.

Senator Copeland fails to confirm the men before adjournment. It is probable that they will refuse recess appointments, which would be without compensation until their confirmation. Neither are men of means and both have retained their present connections while awaiting senatorial action. Mr. Hatcher is federal radio supervisor at the University of Minnesota. He has been a consulting radio engineer, having recently resigned his associate professorship at the University of Minnesota.

Should both the bill and the appointments fail to get Senate approval, President-Elect Hoover will be forced to give prompt attention to radio upon his assumption of office. He has no previous experience of radio since his election although he is reliably reported as favoring the commission's extension. As to the proposed new commissioners, it is believed they carry the endorsement of the president-elect and that he would be inclined to prefer them recess appointments.

OPPOSES COMMISSION
"I object to putting the development of a new institution, the most marvelous in the history of mankind, in the hands of appointees from the various sections of the country," said he. "The international problems of radio should be under the president and not a commission and I think the president-elect is peculiarly well fitted to handle the problem. He was in it at the beginning and knows it thoroughly."

Senator Copeland is willing to compromise on the Watson-White bill so that the commission's administrative life will be extended until October 1 or perhaps July 1. In the meantime, he says, the commission and the commerce department would be enabled to prepare for the transition and the regulation of radio would not be radically disturbed. The senators favor other provisions of the bill and urge strongly that the commission be put on a "national judicial plane" as a radio appeals body. Condemning the lobby about the commission by members of Congress and others he says that agency should operate as does any other court and shield itself of political pressure. This is a complaint of the commission itself.

CONSIDER ROAD BILL IN SENATE NEXT WEEK
Madison—(AP)—The Goodland highway bill, which abolishes the present highway commission and replaces it with a three-man, full-time commission, will be considered by the state senate next Thursday morning at 10:30 o'clock. It was placed on the calendar for that hour before the senate adjourned for the week-end.

Among the amendments which have been offered to the bill is one by Senator George Blanchard, which would create a one-man commission. The Blanchard amendment provides that the state geologist and the dean of the engineering college shall be ex-officio members, as does also the Goodland bill.

Blanchard would pay the one commissioner an annual salary of $6,000, while the Goodland measure provides that the three commissioners shall each receive $7,500 a year.

BIRTHS
A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Van Rooy, 715 W. Washington, Wednesday.

MORE MEN WANTED TO APPLY FOR FIRE JOBS

The police and fire commission has received about 10 applications from men seeking jobs on the fire department, according to E. A. Schmalz, secretary. Mr. Schmalz said that the date for examination of applicants would not be set until there were 20 or more applicants. It is expected that the examination can be held within the next two or three weeks. From those making the highway standstill at the examination, three men will be chosen to work on the department.

HIGH MONEY RATES HAS STRENGTHENED BUILDING INDUSTRY

Less Available Money Will Keep Down Promotion Schemes, Speare Holds

BY CHARLES F. SPEARE
Copyright, 1929

Wall Street, New York—(Financial review)—The effect of the effect that current high money rates are having on business they point to the effect of these rates on the building trade. This is the one line of industry that shows distinct signs of contraction due to the difficulty of financing new construction although probably a factor of equal importance is the over building in different parts of the United States in recent years.

The figures of January building permits, just available, indicate a decrease of 5 per cent compared with last December and of 11 per cent from January 1928. This has been due chiefly to the slowing down in the smaller cities and towns for in a number of metropolitan centers, notably New York, Philadelphia and Detroit, the totals last month were larger than last year. In the case of the first two were even greater than January 1927. The heaviest loss in January occurred in Chicago where the value of building permits was 50 per cent under that of the same month last year and over 40 per cent under January 1927. San Francisco, Washington, D. C., Newark, N. J., Cleveland, O., Baltimore, Indianapolis, Houston, Texas, Boston, St. Louis, Louisville and Buffalo all indicated a shrinkage but the totals in Los Angeles, Seattle, Portland, Ore., Atlanta, Ga., Milwaukee, Cincinnati, Pittsburgh, Richmond, and Hartford, Conn., were well above those of last year.

The general situation appears to be that while no strong downward tendency in building construction is indicated there has not been much change for the better since the effect of high money rates first began to appear last summer and of the building against the promotion of building projects.

Of the states, California has had the most even development with the January total almost exactly the same as last year and approximately equal to the figure of December 1928. Florida shows some increase over the previous month but smaller total than in January 1928 although conditions in the state are materially better this winter than last. The 50,000 per cent reduction in the total of Illinois was caused chiefly by the contraction in Chicago. Indiana is off 55 per cent on account of the drop in permits in Indianapolis and Hammond, with Baltimore's permits down 60 per cent for the same reason. The states show about the same amount of decrease. The rise in the Detroit total was responsible for Michigan's good results. New Jersey is off 35 per cent. The increase in Oregon is above 100 per cent due to the large gain in Portland and Pennsylvania also doubled its total permits on the basis of the same period. Oregon, Washington, Virginia and Wisconsin all increased by good sized totals.

LEGION SPEAKER HITS UNIVERSITY

Scores Authorities for Allowing Gordon to Return to Classes

Madison—(AP)—Activities of university heads and students were the object of criticism by Robert M. Reiser, Madison attorney and executive counsel for former Governor Fred R. Zimmerman, in an address before the American Legion Washington day dinner here Thursday night.

"To those who belong to the American legion, who have attempted at least to emulate the patriotism of Washington, some of the post-war exhibitions justified as evidence of tolerance, freedom of speech and of thought, seem a bit hard to understand," said the speaker.

A perusal of recent newspaper accounts "make it hard to comprehend the consistency of those in authority in our educational institutions who turn down large gifts to be devoted to the relief of suffering and especially to meet the financial burden incident to providing treatment, but accept funds and permit their application to the education of students who have insulted the institution and who preach doctrines of violent destruction of the very institutions which make these gifts possible," the speaker observed.

The state university has refused certain experimental funds and has accepted David Gordon, as a Zona Gale scholarship student after he was jailed in New York for publishing obscene literature.

"Such unappreciative benefactors of American benevolence are reinstated in the university after sojourning in jail, and boys who have brought honor to the institution are summarily dismissed because of more or less innocent boyish escapades," Mr. Reiser said.

Gene Rose and Joe Kresky, football players at the university were recently refused admission to their classes after charges of assault and battery had been lodged against them.

EVEN BEER BARONS LEAD HARD LIFE, JOE SALTIS ADMITS

South Side Gang Leader's Troubles Are Starting All Over Again

BY OWEN L. SCOTT
Copyright, 1929, by the Consolidated Press Association

Chicago—Life, even for a Chicago beer baron, does not always run along a path of roses.

Joe Saltis, one-time foe of Scarface Al Capone and still something of a power in the south side liquor and gambling business here, has been learning as much ever since he ran afoul of a federal judge.

Sixty days in the house of correction, for gun toting, just fixed one charge. Joe evaded that penalty for 208 days by hiding away from Chicago. Now it appears that his troubles are about to start all over again.

Saltis started the week by loudly proclaiming that he was headed for Florida to hob-nob with the score or more of other Chicago beer barons now sunning themselves in the southern clime. The picture of Scarface Al entertaining the elite at his Miami Beach mansion was tantalizing.

"I'm an 'ex' in this beer business," Joe continued. "Have been for a year. Now for Florida to soak up some sunshine, just as soon as this other charge is fixed up. It's a bum rap and I ain't going to have any trouble beating it."

So on Wednesday, Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson declared for the $5,000 bond posted by Saltis for the gun-toting charge and raised to $50,000 the bond required on a charge involving conspiracy to violate the prohibition law.

JOE PULLS GUN
As though that were not enough, two federal prohibition agents decided Wednesday night to look into the Saltis garage. Joe pulled a brand new gun and chased the agents out of his back yard. Then he returned and took to the woods while the inspection was made. It disclosed 75 slot machines and 18 cases of Canadian ale.

Now the federal agents want an explanation of the liquor and the police want to know about the new gun Saltis was toting and about the slot machines.

Joe has been against the Saltis case for a long time now. The turn came when Joe was tried for the murder of Mitters Foley, a gangland character. He was the first real big-time leader to get caught up in the law's meshes, and although acquitted the appearance in court did him no good. Then the federal government got on his trail. This lends some color to Joe's comment.

"The beer business ain't worth while. It's too much trouble and too little dough."

Other beer barons are likely to feel the same way, if the lid is kept clamped on the city as tightly as it has been the last two days. Police have finally come to realize that Commissioner Russell meant business when he ordered the town closed tight.

For the first time since prohibition the city's saloons really are shut, according to investigators. The police commissioner has promised local business leaders to keep them shut. If that happens the gangs could be starved out. Some of the Saltis outfit already had been found back in their old line—hold-ups and burglary.

The barons now resting in Florida when returning might find Chicago better than their present haunts.

RURAL SCHOOL HOST TO NEIGHBOR SCHOOL
The pupils of Pleasant Valley school, District No. 1 of Chicago, and their teacher, Miss Winnifred Rohm, entertained Crystal Springs school pupils of Seymour and their teacher, Miss B. Little, at a Valentine party, Feb. 14. A sleighride was held to the school. Games and races provided the afternoon's entertainment. Prizes were won by Helen Marcks, Willard Sylvester, Carl Sylvester, Hilbert Thomas, Florence Sylvester, Arline Sylvester, Gordon Sylvester, Zigmund Krutzik and Leone Burmeister. Valentines were distributed after the games.

ONE EXECUTION IN CHICAGO DURING PAST TWELVE MONTHS

Kills, However, Number More Than One Each Day
for Same Period

BY OWEN L. SCOTT

Copyright 1929 by the Consolidated Press Association.
Chicago — The old slogan picturing Chicago as the city of "a murder a day and a hanging a year" now must be changed to "a murder a day and an electrocution a year."

The electric chair, although installed for more than twelve months, had its first use last night when Anthony Greco and Charles Wals, police killers, were put to death.
There is no alteration in the application of the slogan, however, because killings run heavier than one a day.

But locally the demand is slight for more public executions. Rather all sections clamor for swift and sure justice, whether it involves prison or the whipping post or the chair.
Resentment is growing and is openly expressed by police officials and civic leaders, against the policy of leniency, through abuse of the parole and pardoning privileges. This abuse released several of the seven men massacred here a week ago.
Paroled criminals account for much of the city's major crime.

Judge Marcus Kavanagh has assumed an active stand against the prevailing tendency toward leniency.
He points out that a year ago there had been over 500 killings in a twelve month period and not a single execution of a killer. There had been few convictions of any kind.

TO BE KILLED

Now, with the death of Wals and Greco, there are three other killers awaiting electrocution. Judge Kavanagh in opposition action to modify their sentences, said:

"There are no fewer than 500 young Negroes sought of twenty-second street, whose business is robbery and whose instrument is the gun. I have good reason to believe that these men will murder any one for the princely sum of $10. Despite our crowded jails, despite the vigilance of crime organizations, we make no dent in the situation."
The judge suggests the whipping post as a deterring influence on most criminals.

"We could clean up this situation by the addition of ten words to our statute providing a whipping post in cases of robbery and assaults on women."

There is such a loud cry being raised now against any leniency to criminals that officials rather expect to see the electric chair utilized frequently. Governor Emerson, the state's new chief executive, so far has indicated that he will not follow the policy of former governor Len Small in a general display of clemency. The courts in the Wals and Greco cases refused to heed insanity pleas. With those two avenues of escape closed, prisoners face a difficult future.

Phillip Sweeney, Milwaukee, representative of the Missouri Pacific railroad company was in Appleton
Thursday conferring with W. B.
Basing, local agent of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad company.

Here is Scene of Big Prison Break

The great gray walls of the Ohio state penitentiary at Columbus, the entrance to which is shown here, failed to hold Pat McDermott, slayer of Editor Don Mellett of Canton, Ohio, who led several companions in a daring prison break. The men all long-terms criminals, sawed from their cells, crossed a roof and descended by means of a rope made of strips torn from a mattress.

Seamstresses Wondering About President's Flag

Philadelphia — (P) — Seamstresses at the United States quartermaster's depot here have raised a question about President-elect Hoover's intentions regarding the future of the President's flag.

Will he change the design? They ask or will he stick to the present design, which was made in accordance with the order of President Wilson.

All the flags for the president and his official family and the army are manufactured at the Quartermasters depot and it is the presidents prerogative to select or prepare a design for his own flag.

The modern Betsy Rosses are interested, also what Mr. Hoover may do for two other reasons. One is that Woodrow Wilson was the last president to order a new design.
Both President Roosevelt and President Taft had distinctive flags, but the war president's successors, Harding and Coolidge, have used the same design.

Another reason for their interest is that on the Wilson flag the eagle of the United States coat-of-arms has its head turned toward the claw holding a number of arrows, symbolic of war and away from the claw holding an olive branch, symbol of peace.

At the time the Wilson flag was designed, the direction of the eagle's head toward the arrows caused some comment and later was location upon by some as prophetic. President Harding and President Coolidge retained the war president's standard unchanged but whether Mr. Hoover may desire a change in view of the symbolism remains to be seen.

All the flags for the president are made by hand, expert seamstresses embroidering the coat-of-arms. Their task, they say, is not without its thrills. Miss Jean Erskine claims the honor of having worked on the flags of three presidents—Roosevelt, Taft and Wilson.

President Wilson's flag which has done service for three administrations, has a blue field with the coat-of-arms in the center, and four white stars at right angles well within the field. Feathers of the eagle are white shaded with black, another point in which the Wilson flag differed from those of his predecessors.

President Taft's flag was substantially the same, with the major difference that the eagle's head faced the olive branch. President Roosevelt's flag stood out in sharp contrast, having a red field instead of blue. The paleways or perpendicular stripes in the shield on the breast of the eagle were blue, whereas in the Taft and Wilson flags they were red.

MASTER PLUMBERS PROMOTE CLASSES FOR APPRENTICES

Desire Young Men With Ability to Think as Well as Work Hard

When plumbing classes were organized at the vocational schools at Green Bay, Appleton, Oshkosh and Fond du Lac four years ago, it was the first attempt to instruct in the plumbing trade in the Fox river valley, according to M. M.
Hanson, itinerant coordinator of the plumbing industry at the Appleton vocational school.

For years the plumbing industry has been the victim of jokes and stories, and many of the remarks have been true due to the fact that not enough care was taken in choosing the men who entered the trade.
Since 1920, the National Association of Master Plumbers has been promoting an educational program, two points of which are to get the best men possible into the trade and to train them in the great field of sanitation which is becoming more of a necessity. The vocational schools have aided master plumbers greatly in promoting this program.

When a master plumber decides to hire an apprentice, he has to consider applicants from several angles.
The boy should be under 21 because a youth at that age is easiest to mold into a good journeyman. He must be strong physically because plumb-ing isn't any easy job. He must be mechanically inclined, must have good habits, a good disposition, and determination to do as he is told.

EDUCATION IS ADVANTAGE

A well educated boy has a distinct advantage over other boys in that he can grasp new ideas more rapidly.
The plumbing trade needs men who can think as well as work, and a well trained boy entering the trade will be an intelligent journeyman.

There are 45 apprentices in the plumbing trade attending the valley schools. Every apprentice in the cities of Green Bay, De Pere, Kaukauna, Appleton, Neenah, Menasha, Oshkosh, Fond du Lac and Wau-pata attends school. The average age of the apprentice is 22 years, and educational training one and a half years of high school. Many of the boys have spent two or more years in vocational schools.

Thirty per cent or 15 boys have finished high school. The apprentice material in the Fox river valley cities is exceptionally good because of the cooperation of master plumbers and the vocational schools. Apprentices are trained more thorowly than in the past, and this will result in the master plumbers giving better service to the public through highly trained journeymen.

Apprentices attending the Appleton school are as follows: Conrad Verbrick, Jr., at the W. S. Patterson company; Michael Kugler, Jr., at the George Wiese shop; Edward Schrimpf, Reinhard Wenzel plumb-ing shop; John Bauer, Alfred Bauer shop; Reuben Drucks, J. F. Drucks shop; Manasha; Everett Westphal with A. H. Angermeyer; Neenah; and Jerome Koch with C. H. Feller, Kaukauna.

Your Income Tax

No. 17

A loss arising "from fires, storms, shipwrecks, or other casualty, or from theft," is deductible and need not be connected with the taxpayer's trade or business. The term
"other casualty," within the meaning of the revenue act of 1928 is one arising through the physical forces of nature for example, a flood or frost. Allowance, of course, must be made for any insurance received.

Loss of property by theft or burglary is an allowable deduction and need not be incurred in trade or business. Hence the loss occasioned by the theft of an automobile used for pleasure and convenience is deductible. Should circumstances attending the loss of jewelry leave the owner in doubt as to whether it was stolen, mislaid, or lost from his person, a claim for loss would not be allowed. It must be established that the jewelry was stolen.

A loss through embezzlement is deductible for the year in which it occurred.

ciation for Lutherans is on a trip coast states in behalf of the local or-

STOP THE FAT AND GET THIN

The way to reduction is to stop the formation of fat. Modern science has found that way—by turning your food into fuel and energy—by supplying a natural element that helps do that. It is much better than starvation. That modern, scientific method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 20 years—millions of boxes of them. Now the results in slender figures, new beauty and vitality, are seen everywhere.

Each box of Marmola contains the formula, also the scientific reasons for results. So you know the effects are beneficial, and why they all occur. Learn what so many have learned in 20 years about it. Do it now. Ask your drug gist for a $1 box of Marmola and learn what it means to you.

MEDIAN IN SPELLING CLASS AT HIGH MARK

In two months the median in the spelling class in the third grade at First Ward school has been raised from 76 to 98 by means of a contest

being conducted by the teacher, Miss Ellen Jones. Those who got a grade of 100 in spelling are given the front seats in the room, and the lower the grade the farther back in the room a pupil must sit. Seats are changed every two weeks. For the last two weeks James Bailey, John Huebner, Janet Parks, Lillian Ellifson, Edna Temmer, Bernice

Lillie, Leslie Meinberg, Dorothy McNabb, Walter Nilsson, and Robert Hoepner have occupied the seats of perfection.
